Farmers, Business Persons Meet At Chamber Ag Issues Forum

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Three Lancaster County farmers and Don Robinson, head of the Lancaster County Conservation District, formed a panel Thursday morning to interact with the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry. The subject centered on the role farmers play as stewards of the environment.

The meeting combined the regular "wake up to the issues" program of the Chamber and the Ag Issues Forum of key farmers and agribusiness persons. The farmers on the panel were Mort Fry, Ephrata; Don Weaver, New Holland, and Jerry Swarr, Manheim.

Fry has a greenhouse and nursery business. In addition, the ninth generation farm family grows 40 acres of sweet corn and is known for pioneer work with hybrid poplar trees. These trees grow rapidly as windbreaks and as reforesting projects that utilize the poplar tree's ability to consume large quantities of nutrients in municipal waste sludge fields.

Weaver with his brother Nelson and their wives own Weaver Homestead. They represent the 10th generation on the dairy farm that has 90 cows. Through adverse family experiences related to high nitrates in the farm water supply, the Weavers have progressed to a greatly reduced use of fertilizers and chemicals in their farming operation. In addition, the Weavers have a consulting business to help other farmers utilize their economic and management resources.

Swarr, with his family, operates a 300 acre livestock farm that produces a yearly total of 600 beef cattle and 2,500 hogs. In addition, Swarr is a Rapho Twp. supervisor.

In opening the meeting, Jay Howes, manager of ag services, said the two-thirds of the land base in Lancaster County is in farm land, and traditionally, even today, adds stability to the total economy. "In spite of the loss of farm

QUARRYVILLE — A 4-year-old Marvel daughter owned by Jeremy Welk, of Quarryville, was named grand champion of the Holsteins Thursday at Solanco Fair, held in Quarryville.

From a field of about 100 animals, Welk, son of LeRoy and Debra Welk, of Welk-Acres Holsteins, showed Welk-Acre Marvel Marlene, a bred-and-owned cow, to win both the open and youth divisions. It was a repeat win for the cow, having been named grand champion in 1992.

Creedin Cornman, of Carlisle, was judge and placed Anthony Crothers' 3-year-old Long Green Dale Jenny as reserve senior and reserve grand champion of the show. Crothers is the son of Donnie and Linda Cruthers, of Rising Sun, Md.

Jacob Hushon, son of Danny and Patti Hushon, of Quarryville, showed both the junior and reserve junior champions of the breed.

Hushon's intermediate calf, Twin Wind Broker Kiss ET, was named senior champion, while his senior calf, Stewartridge Astro Jazzle II, was named reserve junior champion.

In the Brown Swiss show, held Wednesday, with colored breed judge Robert Kauffman, Jacob's brother Joshua Hushon showed the grand champion, 2-year-old Lake Lane Pebbles, a daughter of Victory Acres Jubilation Emory.

The reserve grand champion Jersey was also the junior champion, an intermediate calf, Hillacres Estes Eugena.

Keystone International In Harrisburg Oct. 5-10

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Keystone International Livestock Exposition is in its 38th year at Harrisburg. The Exposition is recognized nationally as a showcase for the nation's top beef cattle, swine, sheep, and horses. It will be held at the Farm Show Complex on October 5-10, 1994.

1994 has been designated as "Year of the horse," so horse exhibitors will receive special attention as part of the effort to increase public awareness of the horse industry and the high caliber of horse shows held annually at KILE.

Increased interest and entries have led the show management to expand the horse program to six days, which moves the Appalosa show to Wednesday and the Quarter Horse show to Sunday. Once again, part of the craft horse-hitch show is a qualifying event in the North American Six Horse Hitch Classic Series, and many of the country's top rated hitches will work to earn points for the national event in Ocala, Florida.

Other livestock will also garner international attention. The American Polled Hereford Association has designated KILE as one of its three rotating Standard of Productivity (SOP) shows. The SOP show is always a major attraction because of its genetic focus approach to cattle judging.

The Shorthorn show has been designated as a Point Accumulation Event by the American Shorthorn Association. The Limousin cattle show is a Medal of Excellence Show, Level II, and is one of eight approved regional competitions that qualify exhibitors for the national show.

Sheep competition at KILE features the National Merino show, Great Lakes Regional Rambouillet show and Eastern Regional Junior Dorset show. The junior Sheep show has been expanded to include Rambouillet and Tunis breeds.

Hundreds of collegiate, FFA and 4-H students from several states always enter the junior livestock judging and stockman contests at KILE. These keen educational competitions are excellent tests of knowledge and skill, providing students with valuable experience for their futures in agriculture.

With the newly-expanded

(YORK Co.)—A pair of Suffolk market lambs topped all contenders at the York Fair Junior Division Market Lamb show to earn top honors for their 4-H owner.

Adam Sellers, 15, Thomasville, pocketed both the purple and pink rosettes in the large market lamb show, taking champion honors with his wether entry and the reserve award with a ewe. Earlier, the pair had topped their heavyweight and light heavyweight division runoffs.

Pairs championship went to Dave Olson of East Berlin, with a matched set of purebred Hampshires. Jacob Ebersole, York, claimed the reserve champion pairs honors with a Suffolk and Hampshire team.

Trucklot buying interest was spotty. Offerings were generally readily available on breast items, still close on wings, and more than adequate for the limited interest on dark meat. Wednesday, September 14, 1994

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was moderate to good and best on limited offerings of lightweight product. Over 3 pound sizes were fully adequate and clearing satisfactorily at most plants. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights remained generally heavier than desired. Processing schedules were very heavy and some operations were tentatively set for Saturday. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 53 to 64 cents. Trade sentiment was steady to firm. Breast items were available and were generally slow to clear. Legs and leg quarters were fully adequate. Wings continued to clear well.

Trading levels were generally unchanged on light type fowl. Demand was moderate with offerings from production areas fully adequate for needs. Heavy hens were slow to appear with availability no better than in balance with processing requirements. Finished sales were seasonally active but sales have yet to be negotiated as buyers were watching market.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, Mo.
Wednesday, September 14, 1994

DAILY NATIONAL GRAIN SUMMARY TRADING WAS SLOW, WEDNESDAY, AS THE CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE SUSPENDED TRAD- ING EARLY DUE TO TECHNICAL PROBLEMS BUT RESUMED JUST AHEAD OF NORMAL CLOSE. WHEAT PRICES TURNED LOWER AFTER THREE DAYS OF HIGHER TRENDS CORRECTING WHAT WAS THOUGHT TO BE AN OVERBOUGHT MARKET. REJECTED EEP BIDS FROM YEMEN, EGYPT AND PAKISTAN WERE ALSO PRESSURE POINTS. CORN AND SOYBEAN PRICES CONTINUED TO DE- CLINE IN REACTION TO USDA'S BUMPER CROP ESTIMATES AND HARVEST ANTICIPATION. WHEAT 1 TO 9 CENTS LOWER. CORN 2 TO 5 CENTS LOWER. SORGHUM 6 TO 7 CENTS LOWER. SOYBEANS 3 TO 10 CENTS LOWER. TRADERS DROVE WHEAT PRICES LOWER ON IDEAS PRICES WERE OVERDONE THE PAST FEW DAYS. CONTINUED WORLD STOCK CONCERNS LIMITED THE PRICE DECLINES BUT RE- JECTED EXPORT BIDS UNDERMINED PRICES. SPRING WHEAT HARVEST WAS ALSO A NEGATIVE FACTOR. CORN AND SOYBEAN PRICES EXTENDED DECLINES ON HARVEST PRESSURE AND OPTIMISM FOR RECORD YIELDS. CORN AND SOYBEAN HARVEST HAS BEGUN IN SOME AREAS BUT CUT- TING IN PARTS OF THE MIDWEST MAY BE DELAYED DUE TO RAINFALL IN THE FORECAST.

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY: Compared to last Tuesday: Feeder steers steady to $1.00 lower. Feeder heifers and heifer calves $1.00-$2.00 lower. Steer calves $2.00-$5.00 higher. Supply of first class yearlings over 700 lbs. rather limited. Weigh-ups average to full, with exception of calves gaunt to average. Slaughter cows $.75-$1.50 lower. Slaughter bulls $.50 lower. Packer demand fair to moderate. Receipts this week 9,400; last week 2,254; last year 11,327. Supply consisted of 67 percent yearlings and calves over 600 lbs.; 27 percent calves under 600 lbs.; and 7 percent cows and bulls. The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

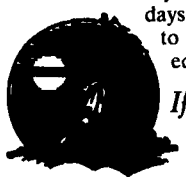
SEPTEMBER 19-25, 1994

FULL HARVEST MOON, SEPTEMBER 19.

SHINE ON, HARVEST MOON

The Harvest Moon, the Full Moon that occurs nearest the autumnal equinox, falls on September 19 this year, just a few days before the autumnal equinox on the 23rd. It's called the Harvest Moon because it delivers more moonlight in the early evening than other Full Moons do — a traditional aid to harvesters. Usually, the Moon rises later each night, but near the autumnal equinox, because of the relative positions of the Moon, Earth, and Sun, the difference in time of moonrise from one day to the next is much less. Since the Full Moon always rises at sunset, it means that for several days in the fall, just when the days are starting to get shorter, our well-lit hours are extended by the light of the Full Harvest Moon.



If the Moon shows a silver shield, be not afraid to reap your field.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ A little vinegar added to dishwater will help cut grease.

EARTHWISE

Many of our best efforts at making our vehicles "earth friendly" simply aren't good enough Perhaps we need a completely new approach to transportation Here's one idea from Copenhagen. The city built a 200-mile network of bike paths and started a self-serve program commuters insert a $3 token to release a bike from the rack and they get the token back when they return the bike. For more info, contact: Transportation Alternatives, 92 St Marks Pl., New York, NY 10009; 212-475-4600.

The new White 445 Chisel Plow makes complying with residue guidelines and requirements easy. Options like rippled coulters and chisel points set at 15" spacing leave lots of residue. Concave coulters and twisted shovels set at 12" spacing leave less residue. And these are just a few of the combinations available.

Our deep-till shank option rips hardpan by tilling 4" to 6" inches deeper than chisel shanks. This reduces compaction problems. And our leveling bar option provides a smoother surface for your next pass.

With nine models, there's a model with the options to match your residue management plans.

OPINION

Keep Farm Families Safe

Some good news and some bad news can be reported about farm safety. The good news is that accidental deaths of farm residents have decreased the past ten years. But the bad news is that in the most recent national report of 1993, the number of people killed in farm related accidents increased to 2,400 from 2,200 in 1992.

In Pennsylvania, 48 farmers lost their lives in 1993, in 1992 47. In all, 624 farm fatalities have occurred in Pennsylvania since 1980. The numbers are remarkably consistent over the years.

This week the nation turns attention to the safety of an industry that harbors some of the bleakest statistics relating to injury and death on the job. National Farm Safety Week runs from September 18 to 24. But Maryland's Governor William Schaefer proclaimed farm safety week to be September 11 to 17.

"People engaged in agricultural production face high risks of occupational injury," Gov. Schaefer said. "But with a little care, many injuries and deaths caused by farm related accidents can be prevented."

Charles Wille, president of the New York Farm Bureau said farmers need to work at making agriculture safer because their families and the state's 18 million consumers are depending on them. "During National Farm Safety Week as well as throughout the entire year, Farm Bureau is urging the state's farm families and their farmworkers to farm defensively," Wille said. "In particular farmers should make sure their equipment is serviced and that all safety guards are in place. In addition farmers should take regular breaks to avoid getting over-tired, and they should avoid unnecessary risks."

The National Safety Council reports that agriculture is the nation's most hazardous industry, with a work death rate 22 percent higher than the second most hazardous industry, mining and quarrying.

Dennis Murphy, professor of ag engineering at Penn State says this means farming is not keeping pace with other hazardous occupations in improving its safety record. "The impact of personal injury and suffering is impossible to measure," Murphy said. "But the costs of agriculture-related fatalities across the country run into the billions of dollars."

"Quite often, a little common sense can prevent serious mishaps," said Lewis Riley, Maryland ag secretary. "For examply, most farm equipment accidents can be prevented by taking time to review safety precautions in the operator's manuel. In addition, it is important to keep all children and the elderly away from hazardous machines."

Farm families should examine all areas of their operation for places of potential danger. By taking corrective action, most accidents can be avoided. We want to keep all our farm families safe.

Now Is The Time

To Attend Northeast Poultry Show

The Northeast Poultry Show will be held September 28-29 at the Lancaster Host Resort, Route 30 east of Lancaster.

Educational programs are scheduled for both mornings. Topics include biosecurity, flies, quality management, environmental proposals, and Salmonella enteritidis.

There is a registration fee for the morning programs. Both afternoons from noon to 5 p.m. the exhibit hall will be open. More than 100 exhibitors will be showing the latest in poultry equipment and services.

Admission to the exhibit hall is free. In addition, on Wednesday at 2 p.m., Dr. David Henzler, USDA, will discuss effective rodent control. One pesticide credit in category 4, 11, or 15 will be given for people attending this session.

On Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m., Dr. Jim Arends, North Carolina State, will be discussing darkling beetle control. One pesticide credit in category 4, 11, or 16 will be given for people attending this session.

Plan now to attend the largest poultry trade show in the Northeast. More information is available by contacting the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, 500 Progress Avenue, Harrisburg, (717) 652-7530.

To Beware Of Silo Gas

Silo filling is in full swing and with it comes the hidden danger of silo gas. Silo gas is formed by the natural fermentation of chopped forages in the silo.

Nitrogen dioxide is the major gas formed in a conventional silo. This gas is characterized by a strong bleach-like odor and low lying yellow, red, or dark brown fumes. It reaches a peak about three days after filling and quickly begins to decrease shortly thereafter especially if the silo is ventilated.

After three weeks it is unlikely that any more gas will be formed. However, some may still be present if it was trapped and unable to escape the silo.

Nitrogen dioxide is dangerous because it causes severe irritation to the nose and throat and could cause inflammation of the lungs. It is especially dangerous because low-level exposure is often accompanied by only slight irritation or pain.

Although death may occur immediately, a farmer could breath the gas without any immediate serious symptoms and then die in his sleep hours latter from fluid collecting in his lungs. Many victims have relapses one to two weeks after the initial exposure with symptoms similar to pneumonia. If you are exposed to the gas, it is critical that you seek medical attention.

To Enter Silos Safely

Ideally everyone should avoid the silo during the critical period when gases are forming. Since this is not always possible, follow these safety rules:

1. Level off the silo immediately after filling. Silo gases build to dangerous levels in 12 to 24 hours after filling.

2. Keep the blower running at all times when working in the silo. Run the blower 20 minutes before entering the silo. Make sure the blower is blowing air into the area you are working and not just across the top and down the chute.

3. Keep the silo room well ventilated for three weeks. Since silo gases are heavier than air, they may come down the chute and settle in the silo room.

4. Wear a self-contained breathing apparatus when entering the silo during the danger period. This is the only breathing device that is certain to protect you from all silo gases.

Now is the time to be careful. This year we have had far too many farm accidents. Let's make this harvest season accident-free!

Feather Prof's Footnote: "The only time success comes before work is in the dictionary."

WHEN GOD SAYS "SHOUT!"

WHEN GOD SAYS "SHOUT!"
September 18, 1994

Background Scripture:
Joshua 6
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 149

If, during the Desert Storm war against Iraq, President Bush had sent a directive to General Schwartzkoph saying, "God has told me to instruct our forces to circle Baghdad and march around it once a day for six days and seven times on the seventh. . .," I doubt that the general would have obeyed his Commander-in-Chief. And if that order had been made public knowledge, the President of the United States would have been laughed out of office.

Why? Because, although many people in this country believe the Biblical account of the Battle of Jericho in Joshua 6, they do not expect God to work in that same way in our world today. Not even the most literal-minded interpreters of the Bible would castigate our President for failing to follow such a "revelation."

One way of rationalizing the difference between Biblical times and our own times is called "dispensationalism" — the theory that Biblical times were of a different dispensation or order than now. In Biblical times, so this theory goes, God worked directly in the world. In our dispensation, he does not. This is a rather clever rationalization, but there is no Biblical or creedal basis for it.

QUESTIONS, QUESTIONS

So, the story of the Battle of Jericho leaves a lot of intriguing questions: did the battle really happen this way or is this simply an imaginative retelling of the story? Did these things really happen in Biblical times but are no longer possible in our own? Why doesn't God work in our world that way today? And how can a person today know when God has told him or her to do something?

I don't have the answers to these questions, but I think there are implications that are just as applicable today as they were when Joshua was first written. God has given us the power of reason and he expects us to use it. In John's gospel Thomas is not berated when he doubtfully questions Jesus. Often in his teaching to his disciples, Jesus challenged them to think things through instead of slavishly obeying the letter of the law. So we are not asked to disengage our brains when we enter our churches.

Still, there are times in life when reason and clear thinking can only take us so far. Sometimes when we have thought our best thoughts they do not solve our problems. One of my recurring delusions in life has been the assumption that if one asks "why" or "how" long enough an answer will be given. God has answered a lot of my "whys" and "hows," but there have been some to which no answer has been given — at least on this side of life.

ONLY SO FAR

It is then, when we have taken our God-given intellect as far as we can, that we must take the next step. "Trust and Obey," as the old hymn puts it. There are times when despite what reason tells us, we must listen to and trust the voice that tells us to do something which reason doesn't seem to support: trust someone who has been untrustworthy, forgive someone who has severely hurt us, keep on trying even though so far our efforts have failed, attempt what seems impossible or at least very unlikely.

Reason told Abraham that it was idiocy to leave his secure home in Haran and journey to a strange land of which he knew nothing. Clear thinking probably did not encourage Moses to take over the leadership of the Israelites. It was irrational to expect Isaiah to come to the people with a message he knew would make people angry. But each responded to these challenges, not because their minds told them it was a good idea, but because they had an unshakable conviction that that was what God wanted.

There have been times in my life when God has said to me, "Trust me" and then told me to do something that didn't seem very smart. I cannot recall that I have ever trusted and obeyed and been left holding the bag.

So, there are times when, if God tells us to "Shout!" we'd better do just that.

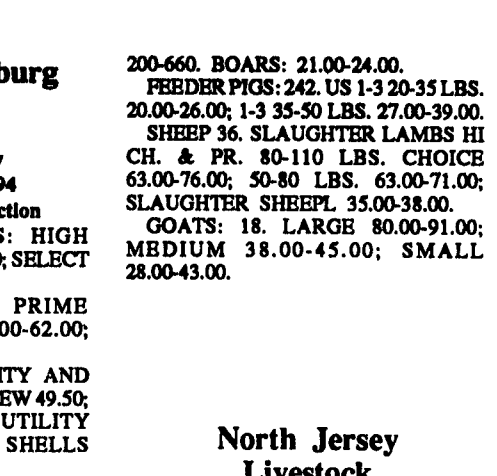
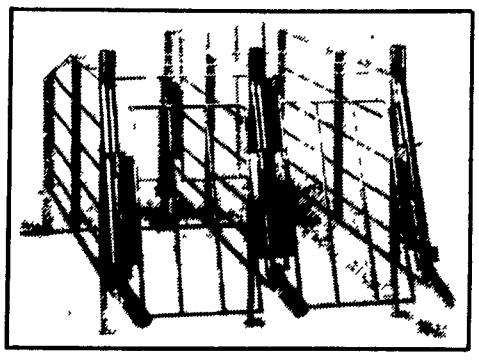
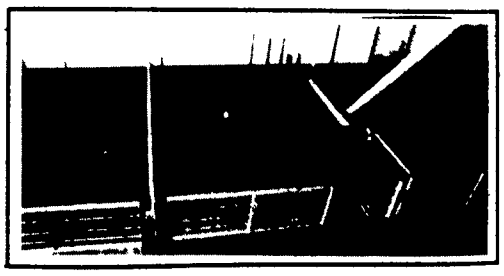
PIG SAVER "DUTCH CRATE"
Developed through testing in our research farms the goal was to develop a crate that nearly eliminates crushing, due to lay one, unmatched durability and be easy to work around. All this has been achieved by a unique gravity fliprail that forces sows to lie down slowly and using stainless steel for rear doors and legs, proven horizontal and solid steel rod construction. All this at a reasonable cost. Crate also can be installed on an angle.





CONFINEMENT STALL
Developed recently in our R&D farm. Our goals were convenience, safety and durability. The low back and flat top rails are easy to reach over with no sharp edges. Stainless steel rear legs and front feet along with solid steel horizontal rods through punched uprights provide the strongest, most durable stall ever produced by Tri-County (21"-24" O.C. x 86")

NURSERY PENNING
Nursery penning has been improved by the use of an optional solid stainless steel panel on the front gates which keeps walkways clean. Stainless steel verticals on penning eliminates corrosion where penning attaches to the floor. Stainless steel drinker pipes & mounting brackets also increase durability.



FINISHING PENNING
Optional stainless steel verticals and fasteners offer improved durability over other similar types of penning Loop and flapper latch arrangement eliminates the use of drop pins. Stainless steel fence line feeders provide excellent durability and a minimum of waste.

Buyers Help The New Chester 4-H Center

Dennis Byrne of Herr Foods Inc., Nottingham, purchased the 1,160-pound reserve champion steer from Jon Marsch of Pottstown for $2/pound. The steer was then donated to the House of His Creation in Sadsburyville.

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — For the fifth year in a row, the Chester County 4-H Beef Club members were fortunate to hold their show and sale at the Kimberton Fire Company Fairgrounds and what a show and sale they had for their fifth year.

It was a beautiful day as 19 top quality steers were exhibited in front of judge Larry Weaver. Judge Weaver commended the 4-H members on the extremely good job that they did in raising top quality 4-H steers, steers that would be acceptable to both the packer and the consumer.

The champion steer chosen by Judge Weaver was a 1,245-pound Angus steer bred by John Hunt of Spring City and shown by Jennifer Dunleavy of Glenmoore. The steer was purchased that afternoon by Hoss's Steak House in Lionville for a record-breaking $2.75/pound.

Hoss's also purchased the 4-H club steer that was donated by Ken Walker of Honey Brook and fed by Conrad Grove, long-time Angus breeder of Downingtown, for $1,748.50. Hoss's donated the steer back to the club to re-sell it again for the Center. The 1,345-pound steeer was then purchased by Thrifty Pallet Company of West Chester, owned by Bill Fairbairn, for $1,008.75.

Jon Marsch of Pottstown exhibited the reserve grand champion market steer, which weighed 1,160 pounds, and was purchased by Herr Foods, Inc. for a record-breaking $2/pound. The steer was then donated to the House of His Creation in Sadsburyville. Eleven steers were sold for an average price of $1.13/pound, a record-breaking average for Chester County 4-H members. Eight steers were selected to represent Chester

At Denver Fair 99 Sheep, 22 Exhibitors Compete

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

DENVER (Lancaster Co.) — Glaser, Stoltzfus, and Bollinger were names that kept popping up at the Denver Fair Sheep Show on Thursday night. These were the names that sheared top honors during the competition between 99 sheep and 22 exhibitors.

The brother and sister duo of Jason and Jessica Stoltzfus had something to celebrate. Jason's homebred Hampshire-Suffolk cross captured judge Barbara Gilbert's eye. Gilbert, the animal science professor at Delaware Valley College, bestowed the title "Mr. Loin," on the champion market lamb. "The loin is where it counts for me," she said.

It was the first market lamb championship ever for the Stoltzfus siblings who have garnered numerous awards in sheep shows around the county for years. Always before, the awards have been for their breeding sheep.

And it was a breeding sheep, that brought Jessica a trophy. Her Dorset fall ewe lamb, Penelope, won the grand champion ewe trophy among all breeds. The win was a great birthday present for Jessica who celebrated her 14th birthday on Friday.

Jessica has a flock of 15 Dorsets and Jason raises market lambs on their Elizabethtown farm. The siblings of Frank and Irene Stoltzfus said the show was full of surprises. They expected Jessica's Dorset yearling to outdo the fall ewe lamb.

"In our family's eyes, the yearling is a better sheep. But like, every show, it's a different judge and a different day," said Jessica, who was estastic with the win.

Kelly Glaser swept all the Corriedale awards and went on to win capture the grand champion ram and the reserve champion ewe title. The 13-year-old from Limekiln in Berks County is creative in naming her sheep. The champion ram Eiffle, named for Eiffel Tower, was bred from a ewe named Statue of Liberty and Eiffel has a brother Rockerfellow. The reserve champion ewe named Amanda was purchased from Kin Brothers in Ohio.

Kelly and her mom, Ruth Hartman, have a flock of 32. Kelly has been showing for six years and had the reserve champion title last year at the Fair.

Keith Bollinger swept all the Cheviot ribbons and went on to claim the reserve champion ram trophy for all breeds with his yearling. His market lambs also took both lightweight champion and supreme titles, but his twin brothers, Jeff and Jerry, were mighty contenders whose names also were in the winner's circle. Jerry took both mediumweight champion and reserve market lamb titles and ultimately the reserve market lamb trophy. Jerry also showed the champion Suffolk ewe and ram and the reseve champion ram. His twin Jeff showed the reserve champion ewe.

The Bollinger brothers raise 25 sheep on their Ephrata farm and have been consistent winners for many years in several county fairs. Both Jeff and Jerry plan on getting married within the next year, but don't count on their names dissapearing from the show circuit. Jerry plans to show again, and Keith plans on buying. his brothers' sheep to continue the family's winning streak.

Kenton Reiff must be doing everything right. It was the 17-year-olds sixth time to earn the champion showmanship title at the Denver Fair. A senior at Lancaster Mennonite High School, Kenton is the son of Sam and Elva Reiff of Ephrata.

The reserve champion showmanship title went to Radell Peters of Middletown. The son of Raymond and Rebecca Peters said his dad gives him pointers in handling the 10 head he raises. The amazing feat that Radell accomplished to win the reserve championship was that he was only second in his class, but when the first- and second-place contenders went into the ring for the final competition, Radell performed "outstandingly" and surpassed the first place winner in his class.

As a third-year exhibitor, Gerald Boyd placed first in the class and Jennifer Zimmerman placed first in the first-year exhibitor's class.

STRONGSVILLE, Ohio—Milk Marketing Inc. (MMI) returned more than $1.9 million in patronage earnings to its 5,700 dairy farm families, announced Don Schriver, executive vice president and CEO and Herman Brubaker, chair and president of MMI's board of directors.

Checks were mailed to MMI members on Sept. 1.

"The 100-percent cash distribution represents 5 cents per hundredweight of the actual milk pounds that producers marketed through MMI during the period of July 1, 1993 through June 30, 1994," Schriver explained. "The distribution represents members' share of earnings made in fiscal year 1994 by MMI's manufacturing arm, Farmers Dairy Foods, Inc. (FDF)."

As a member-owner of MMI, members share in its profits, said Schriver. Throughout the year approximately 60 percent of the milk in MMI's eight-state region is actually marketed to Class I fluid use. Farmers Dairy Foods, also owned by MMI members, turns much of the balance of the milk into butter, cheese, soft serve mix, nonfat dry milk powder and other storable products. These products are then sold into the food service industry.

"We were able to distribute these earnings because MMI's FDF operations had a good year, plus, MMI is financially strong and healthy," said Schriver. In fiscal year 1994, MMI marketed and processed more than 4.75 billion pounds or 533 million gallons of milk and generated revenues of $725 million.

Brubaker, a dairy producer from West Alexandria, Ohio, reported that MMI's board of directors approved the $1.9 million cash distribution.

"It was especially good timing because of the tough economic times some milk producers are experiencing," said Brubaker. "This is a special check. Only those producers who marketed their milk cooperatively through MMI last year received this payment. It's definitely a benefit of MMI membership."

MMI is the region's largest dairy producer-owned cooperative and the 73rd largest U.S. food company. Headquartered in Strongsville, OH, MMI is owned by 5,700 dairy farm families in an eight-state area including Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, New York, and West Virginia.

Farmers/Business Persons

acreage, we are still the largest non-irrigated farm county in the nation," Howes said. "So agriculture is important, and the issues that affect it affect all of us. As ag regulations continue to increase, farmers are more and more operating in the public eye."

Robinson said farmers are questioned about their practices in the press, but farmers continue to be "very high in the area of stewardship of the resources the Lord has provided to them.

"Farmers as a group of people are very close to the natural resources and their Creator. They have a relationship that embodies why they are in agriculture," Robinson said.

From the discussion, several significant statements from the farmers are as follows:

•Fry: There is definitely a concern for the amount of water used in the greenhouse industry, and he predicts that many operations will soon incorporate the ebb and flow system to recycle water and retain runoff.

Concerning manure, we need to be conscious of what gets back into our streams and that we can exceed the nutrient carrying capacity of our fields.

•Weaver: We found our manure was worth a lot more than we thought.

The soil is a digestive system so the microbes in the soil digest nutrients to stablize them to get ready for the next crop. If you keep fiber, like corn stalks and straw, on the field and rotate it back into the soil, you have better soil, not just a pile of dirt.

•Swarr: No one likes regulations. I have never heard a businessman say, "We have new government regulations; isn't this great?" But something is needed. The environmental movement is here to stay. No one wants regulations, but if something happens to their circle, the first thing they say is "Why isn't there a law?"

If we approach regulations with a positive attitude and keep our cynicism at a lower level, we will be all right.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

PEACH BOTTOM (Lancaster Co.) — Beef producers in southern Lancaster and Chester counties now have an organization to represent them.

Recently formed is the Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association, an affiliate of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, Inc.

Membership in the association is open to all interested in the organization, according to Bobbi McMullen, secretary/treasurer, a beef producer.

McMullen, who operates the 20-cow purebred Wakefield Angus cow/calf herd on 60 acres in Peach Bottom, told Lancaster Farming that the organization welcomes all "beef producers, feedlot producers, cow/calf operators, purebred operations, and veal producers — anybody related to the beef industry."

According to the established by-laws, the association was formed to edcuate the general public to the values and advantages of beef and beef products by advertisement and displays, articles in newspapers, activities at fairs, and to provide a pro-active voice to address beef industry issues.

The association will conduct meetings and seminars, tours, and field days to promote technical assistance through interaction, communication, and educational activities.

The annual membership meeting is scheduled later this year for the election of directors. The meeting is scheduled Thursday, Nov. 17 at Hoss's Steak House in Lionville. Other information will be forthcoming, according to McMullen.

Officers of the association are Gary Smith, Downingtown, chairman; Dennis Byrne, Nottingham, vice chairman; Bobbi McMullen, Peach Bottom, secretary/treasurer; and Cheryl Fairbairn, West Chester, cooperative extension service coordinator.

Lancaster Farming has included a membership application with this article. Active memberships for individuals more than 21 years of age, partnerships, corporations, or firms is $20 year year; junior membership for those 21 years and under is $6; and associate membership is $25.

NRAES Announces Dairy Expansion Conference

ITHACA, N.Y. — The Northeast Regional Agricultural Engineering Service (NRAES) has announced it is sponsoring a conference and trade show on dairy farm expansions, to be held Dec. 8-9 in the Turf Valley Hotel, in Ellicott City, Md.

The location is about 20 miles west of Baltimore and registration if $160 if paid by Nov. 18, $180 if paid afterward, including walk-ins.

Rooms at the hotel are extra, but if reservations are made by Nov. 7, the rate is to be $55 for a single, $65 for a double.

The fee for admission to the conference and trade show covers the cost of two lunches, break refreshments, and a 500-page notebook of information related to dairy expansions.

The conference itself is to consist of 25 presentations from specialists in dairy facilities, agricultural lending, strategic planning, facilities planning, manure handling, environmental assessment, and construction.

Presentations are to focus on the strategy of using incremental expansion to ensure that debt load is reasonable compared to anticipated cash flow.

Robert Graves, Penn State University professor in the Department of Agricultural and Biological Engineering, provided leadership in developing the conference, according to a news release.

The program was developed in cooperation with extension staff from land grant universities in Pennsylvania, Maryland, and New York, according to NRAES. It was designed to serve farmers, extension agents, builders, consultants, lenders and any other individuals with an interest in dairy expansions.

Participants are to be provided with the opportunity to learn the many facets of planning and executing a successful expansion — from financing to manure management plans.

Planners, engineers, builders and equipment suppliers are to receive up-to-date techniques for selecting free-stall floor plans, ventilation systems, milking center designs, and materials.

Financial and management advisors, and veterinarians should be able to improve their ability to evaluate proposed dairy expansions, as a result of participating in the conference.

In addition to the presentations, a trade show for participants only is scheduled to be held from 6 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Dec. 6, with exhibits concentrating on equipment and services for dairy expansions and include consultants, dairy equipment manufacturers, lenders, and others.

For a brochure containing the complete conference program, a map to the Turf Valley Hotel, and a registration form, write to NRAES, Cooperative Extension, 152 Riley-Robb Hall, Ithaca, N.Y., 14853-5701, or call (607) 255-7654.

EAA Launches Phase II Of Egg Producer Program

ANDOVER, Mass. — "The unholy trinity — food safety, environmental protection, animal welfare — pose major challenges for the egg industry. By taking a positive approach, however, we may be able to turn these challenges into opportunity to increase our customers' confidence in the egg production process," said Mac McLaurin (President, Egg Association of America) in a speech before participants of the New England Poultry Association's management conference.

The program's framework is for industry, government, scientists, and customers to work together to develop science-based ways to meet the public's needs and expectations regarding the three challenges. Phase I creates an awareness of the need for such a program. In Phase II, there is an Education, Production Practices, and a Research section under each of the challenges. Workshops, as set down in the Education section, are already in progress.

"The program is unique in that it includes all three challenges, it is open to all producers.

Two Cousins Take Home Trophies At Solanco Swine Show

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Two cousins — Nick and Ryan Kreider — were awarded champion trophies at the market swine show on Thursday evening at the Solanco Fair.

Nick Kreider, 15, son of Herb and Darlene Kreider, Quarryville, exhibited his supreme champion 260-pound heavyweight Hampshire crossbred gilt, besting the reserve shown by his cousin, Ryan Kreider. Ryan, 13, son of Lewis and Debbie Kreider, Quarryville, showed his 256-pound Hampshire/Spotted cross gilt to reserve champion.

Nick, sophomore at Solanco High School, said, "I didn't think I would get the champion with this hog." This was his first Solanco Fair champion. Nick said he obtained the hog from Parlett's Auction in May.

Ryan Kreider, in the seventh grade at Swift Middle School, said, "I was lucky, I guess," to be awarded supreme champion. He obtained the hog from Carroll Herr, Holtwood.

It was merely a coincidence that cousins were awarded the championship, since they obtained the hogs from separate sales. Both hogs were raised on separate farms — Ryan's a dairy and Nick's a hog farm.

David Hartman, extension agent from Columbia County, was more impressed with the supreme market hog the second time he saw her, he said. Hartman, Danville, said he really appreciated the hog's "thickness from front to rear."

In all, there were a total of 47 exhibitors and 78 hogs. Following is a list of show placings.

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Josh Kreider exhibited "Ernie," a 1,225-pound Hereford/Angus out of the middle weight division, to supreme champion market steer on Thursday evening at the Solanco Fair.

Josh, 16, son of Art and Joanne Kreider, Kirkwood, is a junior at Solanco High School and a Solanco FFA'er. He is a cousin to the supreme and reserve champion market champion swine exhibitors, Nick and Ryan Kreider, who won their trophies the same day.

Josh, who obtained the steer from Ronald Houghton, Kirkwood, works on the Houghton beef farm. He said he put a lot of extra work into raising the animal to win the trophy.

Reserve champion was awarded to Gary Welk, 16, son of Gary and Donna Welk, Quarryville. Gary, a Solanco High School junior, exhibited the 1,260-pound middle weight reserve champion to overall reserve. Gary exhibited the Charolais/Angus steer in his first Solanco championship.

Ned Sayers, Waffle Hill Farm, Churchville, Md. said the middle weight supreme champion "puts most of everything together right." Sayers, who judged last year's market steer show, said the steer is a "well-balanced, eye-appealing steer."

Showmanship champions went to Daryl Supplee, junior and Jamie Welk, senior.

In all, there were a total of 17 exhibitors, with the same number of steers.

Parrot Wins Market Lamb Championship At Solanco

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Wednesday was April Leaman's day in the winner's circle. The surprised 11-year-old, in her third year of showing sheep, walked away with every top trophy and ribbon in the sheep competition at Solanco Fair.

"I can't believe it," she said. "There were so many other fine sheep here that I thought would win."

From 56 entries, judge David Lytle chose April's 132-pound Suffolk as the top market lamb.

According to April, she thought the champion market lamb she calls Parrot was too skinny.

"Plus, her mouth is funny — like a parrot," she said.

But Judge Lytle declared Parrot as "one solid muscle from front to end."

April also won both the top fitter and the top showmanship titles. For this feat, she used a Suffolk named Jake.

"He's nice and doesn't fight," she said of Jake's cooperation in the showring.

In his first year of showing, April's nine-year-old brother Brad placed first with a 116-pound Suffolk in the middleweight market lamb division. Brad and April are the children of Jackie and Dave Leaman. The family has 10 lambs and five ewes on their farm.

The reserve market lamb title went to the lightweight champion shown by Brent Landis. It was the first year of showing for the nine-year-old, who is the son of Jim and Linda Landis of Quarryville.

"I thought I would place last because this is my first year of showing," said Brent, who raised only one lamb.

But that lamb, named Lamb Chops, had excellent bloodlines. It was purchased from Lloyd Reiff, whose children Lisa and Lyndon Reiff had claimed the championship title at the Solanco Fair for many years.

Reserve fitting champion title was earned by Jessica Schmidt, who is no novice in the showring. The 12-year-old had won the champion showmanship title at E-town Fair and has been showing for four years. Jessica has 21 Dorsets and also showed the heavyweight champion in her class.

"Finally I found a Dorset lamb with length that can outdo a Hamp," the judge remarked about the 123-pound Dorset.

Jessica is the daughter of Pete and Laurie Schmidt.

Reserve showmanship champion was Sara Strickler, who had placed first in the 13 and over division. It was the first year of showing for the 15-year-old daughter of Sam and Dottie Strickler of Quarryville. Sara, who raised three sheep for her FFA project and one for 4-H.

Sara's Dorset's official name is Rigo, but Sara said of the lamb that she showed for the reserve showmanship title, "I call her Dork or Honey, depending on how she behaves."

In the 13 and over fitting competition, Grant Hossler placed first.

Following is a partial listing of show results from the Solanco Fair.

WARNING - If Your Family Owns Assets In Excess Of $1,200,000 Get This Report!

The definition in Washington DC of "well-to-do" might as well mean "target." This FREE Report points out financial traps that can let the IRS and attorneys legally take up to 70% of your family estate. Better yet, it shares tips and techniques you can learn more about to "bullet-proof" your financial assets from taxes and lawsuits!

Washington DC - The new administration and the IRS are on a mission to confiscate the wealth of people who have made a financial success of their lives.

Anyone with more than $1,200,000 of net worth is now slated to be nailed with incredibly high income and estate taxes. The new "politics of envy" makes you a convenient target for those who feel what is yours should now be "everyone's!"

Under current tax law, if you accumulate too much money in certain assets, you could pay taxes as high as 70%! Under proposed new tax laws, the Clinton Administration wants to decrease the amount you can legally give your family, as well as reduce the amount you can leave your children and heirs, estate tax free!

Evidently a new kind of "McCarthy like" witch hunt is cropping up that says "If you have a significant financial net worth, you should pay through the nose, to bring more money into the U.S. Treasury!"

Paying your "fair share" is one thing. But there is no reason to allow the government and the legal system to seize over half your money without a fight. (Yes, they legally can and will take over 50% of your money, if you let them.)

To help you better understand what we are talking about, we've prepared a FREE REPORT "How To Legally Keep The IRS And The Attorneys Out Of Your Pocket!" Murry Associates Build New Building To House Auction Center

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — A new 6,400 square foot building has taken shape along the Lititz Springs Creek off North Lane that promises to be another boost for the auction industry in Lancaster County and the surrounding region. This new auction center that is to open next Saturday, Sept. 24, is the dream of Elmer and Richard Murry, the father and son team of E.M. Murry Associates, headquarted at 10 S. Broad St.

"We have been looking for a place to accommodate our auctions better than on a one-day setup at a fire hall," Richard said. "Over three years we have investigated different places, running into many bureaucratic obstacles. Finally, at the end of July of this year, we received final building permits for the warehouse slab that was used by Wilbur Chocolate before a fire destroyed the building four or five years ago.

"We feel we are beautifying Lititz, and not only the town, but we are also providing a service to Lancaster County and the surrounding area with another auction facility. The auction business is a growing industry, and in many areas this business is only in its infancy.

"An auction is an answer to economics regardless if the economy is good or bad," Richard said. "People sell in good times to make a profit and in bad times they sell to get out of debt or escape their problems."

The Murrys already have 13 auctions lined up for the new building. At the opening sale they have a full line of antiques, including Jaguar automobiles, Lionel trains, machinist tools and firearms. They plan to hold auctions every Monday and as they have merchandise to sell.

The new building on leased land is 40'x 160' with an auction room, offices and a large storage area. Truck docks are in place to accommodate easy unloading and loading access to the building.

Elmer Murry has been an auctioneer for 41 years, longer than almost everyone else in Lancaster County. that is still active. He likes the business and hopes to "stick at it a while longer."

Of course, he has seen a lot of change over the years. When he started in 1953, he sold dry sinks for $1.50. Now they bring up to $1,500. A Dutch cupboard went for $300 or a Windsor chair for $60, but now you can get $1,200 or $1,500 for either.

Carnival glass sold by the basketful for 25 cents. Gaudy Dutch went for $20 or $30. Now they bring in the $100's.

Elmer said business runs in cycles but not as much as when he started. In the '50's you only had sales in the spring and fall. There was no such thing as a summer auction. Then auctioneers began to promote sales, develop logos and advertise. This developed a following.

"I hope I have done right by the people," Elmer said. "I have tried. Everybody 'flubs' sometimes, but if you can square things away right away, it doesn't become serious."

If you are into collecting, Elmer suggests good solid plastics not glued together. "Many of the items today will never last long enough to be called antiques," Elmer said. We live in a throw-away era. I looked at a cherry table with Queen Anne's feet and six chairs bought in the early 1930's. I don't care what these items bring; they will be worth more than anything you can buy now. No reflection on the furniture industry; they are just meeting the market. But in 1930 you could still get something that will last to become antique. Since then, if you are going to use it, it will not last."

If Elmer were to summarize his view of business, he would say it in three words: "Observe," "Compare," and "Remember." Observe what you are selling, compare it with something you sold before like it, and remember that when you go on to the next one like it.

"And always try to do your best. Always!" Elmer said. "You can never reach the top, but you can better your best as you progress."

The new auction center building is set to open for the first auction on Sept. 24, 1994.

Elmer Murry, left, and son Richard Murry with the catalogue of the first auction to be held in their new 6,400 square foot building to serve as an auction center in Lititz. Elmer started auctioneering in 1953, 41 years ago.

Angus Registration Up 10 Percent

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Registrations of Angus cattle by the American Angus Association totaled 16,504 head in June, a nearly 36 percent increase.

This strong summer business surge pushed registrations for the first three-quarters of the 1994 fiscal year to 172,846 head, an increase of 10.05 percent over the same nine months a year earlier, reported Richard Spader, executive vice president of the American Angus Association.

"It apperas that registrations of Angus cattle by the American Angus Association will easily top 200,000 head in our 1994 fiscal year, for the first time since 1982," Spader said. "The sustained eight-year growth in American Angus Association business appears to be fueled by strong demand for registered Angus seedstock."

For the first nine months of the 1994 fiscal year, transfers of registered Angus cattle to new owners (which represent sales) is up by 10.78 percent.

The number of new people starting registered Angus herds and joining the American Angus Association is keeping pace with registration growth. During the first nine months of the fiscal year, 2,022 new regular membershipos were issued, up 9.33 percent from the previous year. In addition, 1,125 young people have become junior members of the association, an ioncrease of nearly 6 percent.

The third issue is Money. Often the last items considered for purchase are safety related items. Too many times the shield for the PTO and the protective gloves for pesticide handling are not purchased because money is tight and an accident hasn't happened yet. Safety equipment should be looked upon as an insurance policy. You wouldn't think about operating a car without insurance, so why not protect yourself, your family and your employees with proper safety equipment around the farm. Make safety a Habit, take Time when working around farm danger areas and spend some Money to make your farming operation safe.

Chester County DHIA Board

Chester County DHIA has scheduled their annual banquet for Thursday, November 17, 1994 at 7:00 p.m. at the East Brandywine Fire Hall, Guthriesville, PA. This year, in addition to the business meeting and election of directors, entertainment is being planned. Awards will be expanded to recognize not only high protein herds, but also low average somatic cell count herds for the year and the highest scores on the PA DHIA Herd Management summaries. Tickets will be available in October through the local DHIA technicians.

Dairy Farm Safety - Don't Wait for an Accident to Happen !

Why is it that one farming operation seem to be accident prone while a neighboring farm runs smoothly with very few accident problems? I am convinced that it is related to three practices - Habit, Time and Money. First, let's talk about Habit. Safety has to become an automatic process that a farmer practices everyday, just like eating, sleeping and milking cows. Before working with machinery, safety precautions, such as stopping the machine before servicing, avoiding moving parts, and keeping shields in place, should be as routine as tying your shoes. Don't enter a recently filled silo until it has been properly ventilated and never enter a manure pit without proper breathing equipment. Always wear the proper goggles or face shield when grinding and/or welding. As a standard practice, wear protective clothing, gloves and a face shield when working with pesticides and other chemicals. These are only a few of the safety standards that farmers need to adopt on a regular basis. Most farmers know proper safety measures, but the ones that have good safety records, use these practices everyday rather than only when the spirit moves them.

That brings me to the second point - Time. Dairy farmers, in particular, never seem to have enough hours in the day to complete all their priorities. My wife and my sons always said I often planned more for a day than could physically be accomplished; therefore, I tended to rush around myself and also expected everyone else to keep up with me. We had a good safety record on our farm, but one example of being in too much of a hurry almost cost me a serious injury. About 30 years ago, we had extra help to fill silo on a particular day and we planned to get a lot of corn silage in that day. My first priority was to put the doors in the 12' x 40' tile silo. The doors in this old silo were not hinged, but hung by a hook from a pipe every two feet going up the chute The only thing that held them in solidly was the silage after filling; then you could safetly stand on step fastened to each door. I had always told everyone that when they were putting in the doors prior to filling, do not use the step on the door to stand on but position your foot on the solid pipe that ringed the silo. This particular day, I was in a hurry and I did not heed my own advice About half way up the silo, I stepped on one of the door steps, the door kicked into the silo, I lost my hand hold and I fell 20 feet down the silo chute with my pelvis hitting a concrete floor I was extremely lucky in that I did not break my pelvis, I spent only 5 days in the hospital and did not milk cows for three weeks. This stupid mistake on my part happened because I was in too much of a hurry and it could have cost me my life or caused a lifetime handicapped injury The moral of the story is: take time to do a job safetly - the time used is well spent

Ayrshire Breeders Get Opportunity to Voice Opinions

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Ayrshire breeders are to have an opportunity to air opinions they have about the directions of the breed, according to a series of recent news releases from the board of directors of the Ayrshire Breeder's Association, headquartered in Brattleboro, Vt.

According to the releases, the board is expected to dedicate the majority of its fall business meeting to identifying key areas and developing long-range strategic plans.

As part of that effort, it has announced that it has voted to create a breeders' forum to be held Oct. 5 at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis.

The forum is to be held in a tent on the Expo grounds, with more specific information available through the Midwest Regional booth, located on the expogrounds. Members of the board and industry leaders are to be on site to listen and lead the forum.

According to a news release, issues participating breeders should be prepared to discuss include: the position of the breed in five years; the three most important areas upon which the organization should be concentrating effort; and ways in which the association can better serve its members.

"We encourage everyone with an interest in the Ayrshire breed to join us," said Jim McConnell, association president. "Conversation topics will range from where the breed should be in five years to how the association can better work together. The more ideas we have from all the different players on the team, the better the game plan will be," he said.

And in the same effort, those breeders who attend the North American Livestock Exposition, in St. Louis, at the expo center grounds will have the opportunity to voice their opinions about the association and the industry. That event is set to be held from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., Nov. 7. For specific location information, inquire with NAILE staff.

According to McConnell, "We feel it is vitally important that all Ayrshire breeders have full opportunity to speak up about where they believe the breed should be headed.

"We're making it as easy as possible for breeders to let leadership know what they believe they need and want.

The association also recently mailed a questionnairre to all people who have done business with the association over the past 15 months. The deadline for returning those questionnairres to the association was Sept. 10.

"We know we have a breed with a sound genetic base and cattle that are profitable for their owners," McConnell said. "However, we also know that we are not making genetic progress at a rate comparable to the other major dairy breeds.

"The officers, directors, and staff are presently involved in developing a long-range strategic plan for the ABA and the Ayrshire breed," he said.

"When the plan is complete it will include specific goals and the steps necessary to achieve these goals within a defined time frame. The goals and the time frames established within this plan will become the bench marks by which we measure Ayrshires' progress."

ADC Members Receive Additional Payments

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative members recently received nearly $1.8 million in additional payments, the equivalent of 5 cents per hundredweight.

The additional payment was based on the cooperative's "good earnings" for the 1994 fiscal year, according to Robert M. Dever, chief executive officer. Atlantic's net margin totaled $7.3 million, with more than $574 million in sales.

The payment, an additional milk check, supports the cooperative's belief that member money is better spent on the farm. Atlantic's goal is to keep member investment in the cooperative at a minimum, while maintaining adequate equity to operate the business.

"We are pleased to make this payment to our members," Dever said. "It supports our mission of maximizing the overall returns to members and patrons."

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents more than 3,500 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Reichard Family Claims Double Honors At South Mountain Show

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

Reich-Dale Warden Elegance, a senior three-year-old exhibited by Chris Reichard, Chambersburg, capped her win of the Holstein show by taking the Supreme Champion title. Sired by Hilltopper Elevation Warden, she was bred by the Edgar Reichard family's Reich-Dale Farm, Chambersburg, and also selected best bred and owned in the Holstein competition.

Elegance bested the runner-up Jersey champion, Reich-Dale Sargent Ann, owned by Brian Reichard. The four-year-old Jersey is sired by W F Justin Sargent and was also the youth division champion of the South Mountain Fair's Jersey breed show.

Four additional colored breed champions rounded out the impressive lineup that circled for the selection of Supreme Champion. Representing the Ayrshires was the four-year-old winner, Wentworth Farm Benef Melanie, owned and exhibited by Richard Martin. In the Milking Shorthorn champion spot was Three Springs Erin, a dry cow owned and exhibited by Glenn Crowl. Guernsey breed champion honors went to Hooverville Alf Roseanne, the senior three-year-old owned by youth exhibitor John Garber III. Topping the Brown Swiss breed was Euphorias Johnny D Becky, the four-year-old owned and exhibited by John and Bonnie Hess.

Selection of the Supreme was done by judges Steve Wilson, Parkton, Maryland, who officiated over the colored breed classes, and John Burket, East Freedom, who made the Holstein show placings. About 125 head competed in the combined shows.

The coveted purple Premier Breeder and Exhibitor banners from the Holstein show were split between two Adams County dairy families.

Named the Premier Breeder was Ke-Holtz Farm owned by Kevin and Karen Holtzinger, East Berlin. The Holtzinger family exhibited a string of 19 head, including 4-H animals owned by daughter Shannon, and took seven first-place wins as well as junior and reserve junior champion titles.

Jemaro Farms, New Oxford, owned by Jeff and Mary Kay Roche, earned the Premier Exhibitor banner. Their 17-head line-up took six blue-ribbon spots, including firsts in the 100,000-pound and aged cow classes.

Juniata County Fair Has Good Report

MIRIAM WERT
Juniata County Correspondent

PORT ROYAL (Juniata Co.)—The 140th Annual Juniata County Fair was held from Saturday, September 3, through September 10. This is a nostalgic time for the seniors of the area as they especially enjoy the sulky horse races and seeing the many agricultural exhibits in various buildings and on the grounds.

It is also a time of excitement for the younger generations who enjoy the many rides and places of amusement, and especially the stock car races on the first Saturday, on Labor Day, and the much longer "Tuscarora Fifty" on Friday night to end the season.

But what really makes a County Fair what it is supposed to be are the great number of animal exhibits, hay and grain, fruit and vegetables, baking, sewing, crafts, art etc. Unfortunately, as in other counties all over the state this year, there were no peaches to exhibit. However there were excellent apples, pears, grapes, plums and nuts displayed and beautiful cut flowers and potted plants. There were 512 exhibitors who had over 4,000 individual exhibits. There were also 8 Subordinate Grange and 4 Junior Grange exhibits, as well as 2 organizations.

In the animal department there were 153 dairy cows, with 110 Holstein, 20 Ayrshire, 20 Jersey and 3 Brown Swiss. In addition, there were 19 beef cattle, with 16 beef steers being sold at the 4-H, FFA auction. And there were approximately 133 sheep, 16 pigs and 11 goats, as well as rabbits on exhibit.

Competition was keen in all departments, and the most exciting judging is done when dairy and beef cattle are shown in the ring where grand champions and reserve champions are selected in 4-H and FFA classes as well as open class.

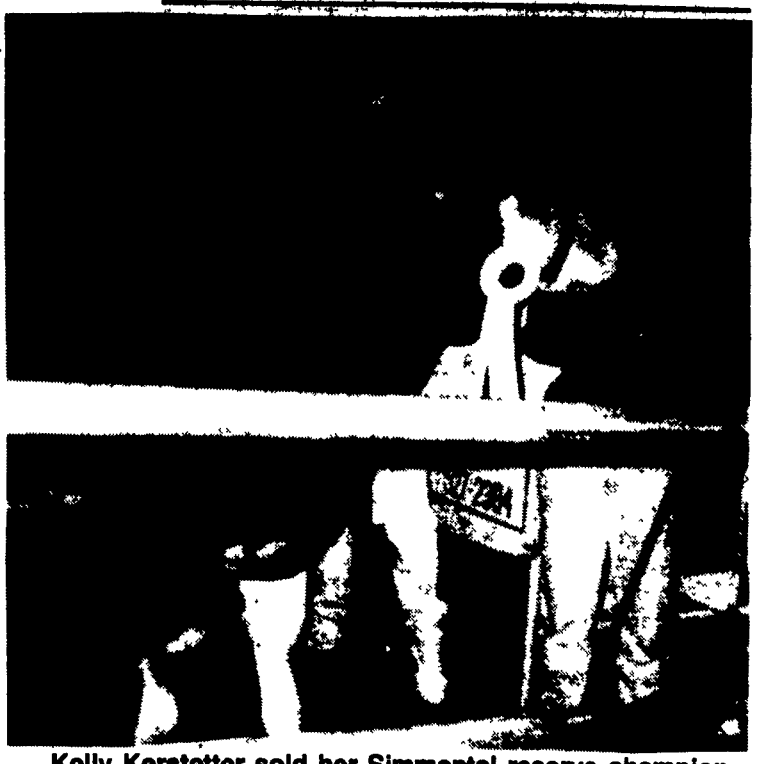
(Turn to Page A45)

Krista Byers sold her grand champion market lamb for $3.00 per pound or a total of $345, to Dick Berrier of IGA.

Margret Weaver has the open class champion Hampshire ewe. Weaver also showed the champion ram.



Kelly Kerstetter sold her Simmental reserve champion for $1.45 per pound for a total of $1,907, to Dick Berrier of IGA.

COUNTDOWN TO COMPLIANCE ...

1994 Versus 1995 WPS Compliance Requirements

Congress recently enacted legislation which delays implementation of some but not all of the WPS until January 1, 1995. The new law provides the agricultural community with more time to learn about the WPS and to prepare for implementation. Table (1) is a summary of the key WPS provisions, including those that are required to be implemented in 1994, and those that are deferred until January 1, 1995. Most of WPS requirements appear on the labels of the pesticides used on agricultural establishments (farms, forests, nurseries, greenhouses). There are two types of WPS provisions on the label: those that are fully spelled out, and those that are referenced but not thoroughly described on the label.

During 1994, you must comply with the WPS requirements that are spelled out on the label. These include the label requirements for personal protective equipment (PPE), the restricted-entry interval (REI), and the requirement for "double notification," if this requirement is on the label. Double notification requires both oral warning and posting warning signs at entrances to treated areas.

You need not comply with the WPS requirements only referenced on the label until January 1, 1995. These include pesticide safety training for agricultural workers and handlers, decontamination sites, notification of workers about pesticide applications (except the "double notification" requirement described above), display of information about pesticide applications, emergency assistance, and display of the pesticide safety poster.

Restricted-Entry Interval Requirements

Under the WPS, each agricultural pesticide label will specify a restricted-entry interval (REI), usually ranging from 12 to 72 hours. Some labels may specify a longer REI. The REI begins immediately after pesticide application. You must keep workers out of a treated area during the REI, except in the following situations.

(1) No contact early entry. After any applicable inhalation exposure level or ventilation criteria has been met, you may permit workers to enter a treated area during an REI if they will not touch or be touched by any pesticide residues on plants, in soil, in water, or in the air. If there is no contact, there are no PPE requirements and no time limitations. The exception to early-entry limitations for no contact early entry applies in 1994 and beyond.

(2) Non-hand labor early entry. You may allow workers to enter treated areas before the REI is over to perform non-hand labor jobs that will involve contact with pesticide residues. These tasks include operating, moving or repairing irrigation or watering equipment, but does not include such tasks as harvesting, weeding, pruning, cultivating, etc., which are considered hand labor tasks. You must make sure that non-hand labor early-entry workers do all of the following:

(a) Wear the early-entry PPE specified on the label. In 1994, you must provide the early-entry PPE to the worker and it must be in clean and operating condition. Starting January 1, 1995, there are additional employer duties for providing, cleaning, and maintaining the PPE.

(b) Wait at least four hours after the pesticide application is completed before entering the area.

(c) Wait at least until any inhalation exposure level listed on the label has been reached.

During 1994, there are no time limitations to non-hand labor early entry. Starting 1-1-95, early-entry work under this exception is limited to short-term tasks and usually not allowed to exceed one hour per worker each day.

TABLE (1) SUMMARY OF KEY 1994/95 WORKER PROTECTION STANDARD REQUIREMENTS

Requirement	Applies in 1994	Applies after 1/1/95	Notes (Page numbers listed reference EPA's WPS How To Comply Manual)
Restricted Entry Interval (REI)	Yes	Yes	The REI is specified on the label. (pgs 45-47)
Early Entry Activities involving contact w/treated surfaces	Yes - no time limits	Yes - time limits	No entry for first four hours after application & inhalation levels/ventilation criteria met. PPE required. No hand labor. Until 1/1/95, no limit on worker time in treated area. After 1/1/95, one hour/day. (pg 137)
Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) for Handlers	Yes	Yes	PPE specified in Precautionary Statements portion of the label must be used. Additional employer duties for providing, cleaning, maintaining PPE after 1/1/95. (pgs 79-81, 139)
PPE for Early Entry Workers involving contact with treated surfaces	Yes	Yes	PPE must be provided by the employer and must be in clean and operating condition. Additional employer duties for providing, cleaning, maintaining PPE after 1/1/95. (pgs 65, 69-70, 139)
Early Entry Irrigation Workers Choice of PPE	Yes	No	Until 1/1/95, early entry PPE or coveralls plus chemical-resistant gloves and chemical-resistant footwear if there is pesticide contact only to the feet, lower legs, hands, arms. After 1/1/95, use PPE on label for early entry.
Notification of Agricultural Workers about Applications	No	Yes	Required after 1/1/95. In most cases, employer can choose oral notification or posting, unless both are required by the label. Greenhouse uses-posting required. (pg 139)
Double Notification, Oral & Posted Warnings, as req.d on labels for most toxic products	Yes	Yes	In 1994, employer must post and warn. After 1/1/95, must use the WPS field warning sign and follow WPS specifications for posting or for oral notification. (pgs20, 33, 41, 139)
Protections for Crop Advisors	No	Yes	Until 1/1/95. WPS does not apply. (pg 136)
Pesticide Safety Training for Handlers and Agric. Workers	No	Yes	WPS requires basic safety training for workers and more detailed training for handlers. (pg 141 & other EPA training handbooks)
Additional WPS Protections: - Display of a Safety Poster - Pesticide Application Display - Decontamination Sites - Emergency Assistance - Monitoring Handlers - Employer Info. Exchange	No	Yes	These and other WPS requirements are delayed until 1/1/95. This delay gives employers an opportunity to learn about the requirements and integrate them into work operations.

"Countdown To Compliance" is a cooperative educational effort of the PA Department of Agriculture, Penn State Office of Pesticide Education, Penn State Cooperative Extension Service, PA Farm Bureau, PA Farmers Union, PA State Grange, PA Vegetable Growers Assoc., PA Christmas Tree Growers Assoc., Adams County Fruit Growers Assoc., PA Farmer Magazine, and Lancaster Farming Newspaper. Copies are available by contacting PA Farm Bureau Division.

✔September Compliance Checklist:

___ Review WPS requirements for 1994 in Table 1 above and all appropriate portions of WPS How To Comply Manual.
___ Review your chemical handling/use practices for REI's, early entry, PPE, and double notification to determine if they meet WPS label requirements.

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Conservation District has demonstration funds available for farmers in the Brandywine, French, and Pickering Creek high priority watershed areas.

The district has received a grant for $15,500 from the Pennsylvania 319 Non-Point Source Program to be used for a number of projects to promote the county's nutrient management program and best management practices.

The money is for developing demonstration projects for farmers in the area and installation of innovative practices for non-point source pollution reduction. Up to 75 percent of the cost of installing these practices can be provided.

Examples of best management practices qualifying for the cost-share program include streambank fencing, barnyard runoff control, composting, and pasture management. Farmers will be expected to maintain the installed practices and to develop nutrient management plans to complement these practices. Development of the nutrient management plans will be done through the district's nutrient management program.

For more information, technical guidelines, and how to sign up for the program, contact Lori Sandman at the Chester County Conservation District, (610) 696-5126.

4-H/FFA Holstein Winners At Maryland State Fair

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — Judge, Curtis Day summed up the 1994 Maryland State Fair's Holstein portion of the dairy show well. "If all States had a show the quality of this one, 4-H would be in marvelous shape!"

If there was any doubt to what Day was referring to, one glance at the quality of the Holsteins being shown made it obvious. One hundred-twenty youngsters, ages 8 to 18, from thirteen of Maryland's counties plus an exhibitor from Baltimore City brought one-hundred-seventy-three head of cattle before Judge Day for evaluation. By show's end Shannon Harrison's three-year-old cow, Md-Dun Loafin Moonshine was named grand champion, and best udder of the show.

Moonshine is out of C Logic Marijuana, a cow that Harrison's brother and a friend had traveled to Canada to buy. The cow was bred to Bridon Astro Jet ET and eventually Shannon bought out the friends' share in the calf, making her brother, Paul Harrison (Butch) and herself co-owners.

For Shannon, who is in her last year of 4-H the win was a bittersweet one. She is saying goodbye to 4-H, but she is going out with a bang! Shannon plans to continue to show on the open show circuit, and the State Fair dairy champion will be at her side!

Reserve grand champion was Savage Leigh Counselor Star owned by Christopher, (Chip) Savage of Montgomery County. She is a two-year-old, sired by Carnation Counselor ET and out of Savage Leigh Christmas Star. Savage Leigh Counselor Star also took the award for the best bred and owned animal of the show.

The junior champion was Amy Iager's How El Acres Lee Ruffle, a junior yearling heifer out of How E 4 Acres V T Ranson and sired by Brookview Lee ET. Reserve junior champion was Burlin Counselor Mamie, an intermediate heifer calf sired by Carnation Counselor ET and out of D-Burlin Delegate Missy and owned by Holly Burall of Carroll County.

Other notable wins in the show included Shannon Harrison of Howard County as the fitting and showing champion. The reserve champion fitting and showing exhibitor was Amy Iager, also from Howard County.

When asked what he contributed the quality of the cows at this show to, Judge Curtis Day said "Families, and kids that want to do well and do try their best to do well and do do well! Family. That's the backbone of it all!"

INTRODUCING

NEW MARATHON™

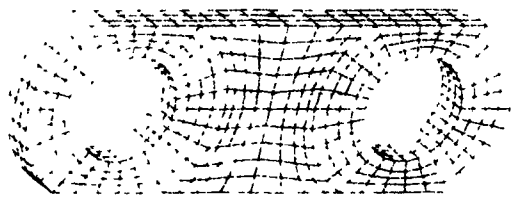
FULL ROUND BUSHING CUTTER CHAIN

FOR YOUR PRESENT OR NEXT UNLOADER

FEATURING

IMPROVED STRESS DISTRIBUTION

The MARATHON cutter chain features sidebars with full round bushing design for improved stress distribution, and a full contact press fit between the bushing and sidebar. This increases the fatigue strength of the bushing-to-sidebar joint. In laboratory cycle loading tests, the bushing withstood 30% more loading cycles than the previous bushing link design before working loose.



The full round bushing distributes force in a symmetrical pattern to the sidebar

CLOSER PIN-TO-BUSHING TOLERANCES

Closer tolerances -- the result of new dedicated tooling and new manufacturing quality assurance processes -- contribute to chain tightness and reduce layover.

Man In The Kitchen

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — Sourdough rye bread, sweet rolls, home-canned spaghetti sauce, sauerkraut soup, and Moussake are a few of Joe Gonya's specialties.

The Lebanon Countian said that his interest in cooking began many years ago when paging through a magazine. When he asked his wife to make a recipe that was pictured, she challenged him to try it.

He did.

"It was great," he said.

After that, cooking became a regular Sunday activity.

For most people, cooking for a spouse and five children is much different than cooking for 60 people. But to Gonya, his reaction was if he could prepare a meal for six, he could do it for 60.

It wasn't many weeks after cooking for the first time that a cook was needed to prepare meals for 60 men attending a religious retreat sponsored by his church. Gonya volunteered.

His wife planned the menu and wrote instructions for the meals.

It was so successful that Gonya's been cooking for the church-sponsored event at least 50 times since the first event.

He also is part of a hunting camp for 10 men. It was a bit hectic for the men to hunt and then scramble to prepare a meal at the end of the day.

Gonya had a solution.

He said, "I like to hunt but I'd rather cook."

Consequently, Gonya cooks all day in the cabin while the others are hunting.

"Everything is made from scratch," Gonya proudly reports. Homemade bread, fasnachts, and whatever else appeals to Gonya, who prefers to experiment with new dishes.

"I follow recipes somewhat and then adjust them to my liking," said Gonya, who attributes his improvisions more to his impatience and dislike for following rules.

Gonya's wife Priscilla is a home economist and a nutritionist who follows recipes precisely and is an excellent cook.

Gonya said his cooking is sometimes a point of contention between the two, for which Gonya takes the blame. He is an impulsive cook who on the spur of the moment decides to stir up a dish — one that may use the sour cream for a menu his wife had planned to make. Her best-laid plans are often in disarray from Gonya's cooking experiences.

His wife does enjoy eating his cooking — sometimes. Because he improvises, the meal may taste wonderful but he can't duplicate it again because he doesn't know exactly how he made it. Sometimes, he painfully admits, his concoctions may turn out less than the best — a problem that could be avoided if he followed the recipe.

Gonya appeases his culinary urges by cooking spaghetti dinners for his church. At Easter, he makes 50 loaves of sourdough rye, which are eagerly purchased by friends at his church.

During the past years, the Gonyas have hosted 36 foreign exchange students who stay in their home for one year. Four are living with the family. Gonya enjoys sharing his cooking expertise with them and learning new dishes from them.

The Gonyas also enjoy traveling to other countries. Last year he and his wife taught English in Czechoslovakia and he came home with an extension collection of Slovakian recipes.

"Every place we go, I try to find some new recipes," said Gonya. Usually the cooks are happy to share their recipes with him.

Gonya is retired from a sales manager position in the steel industry. He has toyed with the idea of becoming a restaurant chef, but considers that he wouldn't want to be tied to a regular schedule.

He is also a Master Gardener with the Penn State Cooperative Extension. He has a large garden and preserves the produce from it. The combination of gardening and cooking work well as he preserves the produce from it.

Over the years, Gonya has compiled a looseleaf notebook of hundreds of recipes. Here are a few of his favorite recipes.

MOUSSAKA

Serves 8

2 pounds lean ground beef
1 teaspoon beef bouillion granules
1 large onion

Saute the onions lightly, then add meat and brown. Meat should be worked with a fork while browning.

Add:

½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup tomato sauce
½ cup red wine

Mix thoroughly until even consistency.

Prepare:

4 medium zucchini, diced into one-inch cubes
1 cup black olives, chopped

Saute above in butter until onions are soft.

Prepare white sauce:

½ cup butter
½ cup flour
2 cups milk
1 cup sour cream
4 eggs, beaten

Mix butter, flour, milk, sour cream until well blended, then add beaten eggs and stir well. Heat sauce until it starts to thicken and hold aside.

Place zucchini mixture into baking dish, well greased.

Sprinkle with grated romano cheese, parsley flakes and cover lightly with grated mozarella or pizza cheese.

Pour meat mixture over zucchini-cheese mix.

Pour white sauce over entire mix and top with light dusting of romano cheese. Cover with grated mozarella cheese.

Bake in 300 degree oven for about one hour, then lower oven to 250 degrees until ready to serve.

GULAS

½ pound meat per person (half pork, half beef)
½ pound onion for each pound meat
All of pork fat trimmed from pork
Two tablespoons lard
¼ green pepper per person
1 toe garlic per person
1 medium potato per person
1 whole canned tomato per two persons
1 small jalepeno pepper (for six or more people)
2 teaspoons marjoram per six people
Salt and pepper to taste
Cut meat into 1-inch cubes and trim fat from pork and save
Chop onions and peppers coarse
Cut potatoes in ¼-inch size pieces

In a large pot add two tablespoons lard and heat. Saute chopped onions until soft, not brown. Add pork fat, beef, jalapeno pepper, a little water to keep from getting dry, and chopped garlic. Cook for one hour, stirring so onions do not burn. Remove pork fat and add pork meat and cook another hour. Add chopped green peppers, tomatoes, marjoram, salt, and pepper, and continue cooking. Add a small amount of water to make liquid. One half hour before serving, add cut potatoes. Serve over biscuits or steamed bread.

Homestead Notes

Joe Gonya likes the challenge of trying new recipes, the harder the better.

LAZY DAY STEW

Arrange two pounds raw beef cubes in pan large enough to hold them in a single layer. Do not brown meat.

Prepare potatoes, carrots, onions, and celery, in bite-sized chunks. Prepare enough to make a complete layer of each and place on top of the meat.

Mix one 8-ounce can tomato sauce with one can water, four tablespoons tapioca (for thickening the gravy) one tablespoon granulated beef boullion, and one teaspoon sugar. Pour over vegetables and beef.

Salt and pepper to taste.

Cover with heavy aluminum foil and put in 325-degree oven for at least three hours. Cut back to 250 degrees. Stew should be ready by this time but can be held at 200 degrees for some length of time if necesary, and as long as left sealed with foil it will not dry out. The stew should have a delicious gravy in the bottom of the container. Prep time for the above is about one hour. It's a one-pot meal. Great when served with homemade bread or rolls. Use rolls to soak up the gravy.

A master gardener with the Penn State Cooperative Extension, Gonya considers tomatoes his specialty. He raises several varieties in his garden to can spaghetti sauce. He also answers gardening questions that callers phone into the Extension.

Ivana Plinhtova, an exchange student living with the Gonya family, helps prepare homemade tomato soup.

Fall? Not already?

Unlike some years, there haven"t been many clues out there yet that the Fall season is about to become "official" in a few days.

Late summer cool temperatures, cloudy skies and abundant moisture have so "greened" the countryside that it looks more like May than September. Corn hasn't begun to dry down very much and soybeans seem a ways off from turning the yellow shade of maturity.

Grass continues to grow like gangbusters, keeping us running our mowers at top speed. Meanwhile, we're being bombarded with advertisements about buying snowblowers. (No! I flat out refuse to deal with that thought yet!)

But maybe the flowers know that these glorious days are surely numbered.

The zinnias in the border have covered themselves with wide blooms in clear, bright colors straight from the crayon box. No pastels are in this boldly-hued collection, a mass of intense scarlet-red, glowing orange, and deep-fuschia pink.

One zinnia stalk mixed in with this riotous bunch does have slightly smaller blooms of a demure, yellowish-ivory shade. While more ho-hum than the rest, it serves the valuable purpose of contributing the contrast that makes the others shine more brightly. A bouquet of these on the kitchen table is like an extra ray of sunshine lighting up the whole room.

Another old flowered standby, marigolds, adds mounds of clear yellow and sunny gold to the cheery zinnias. A new type I tried this year, the Ladies marigolds are the larger variety, coming into bloom later than the small French-types, and on bushy, two-feet-tall stalks. Not only do the flowers hold for long periods of time outside on the plants, they also remain beautiful for days when cut in bouquets.

Meanwhile, rows of gladiola continue to poke up long spikes of flowers along the edges of a patch of has-been cantaloupe plants and fading watermelon vines. And, an accidental dribbling of weed-spray intended for the adjoining field corn that "took out" several square yards of early garden has proved to be a floral boon in the long run.

Barely halfway through the growing season, the barren patch was already regrowing small weeds, a sign that purposely-planted stuff would probably thrive equally well. It provided a spot for excess gladiola bulbs intended to be shared with friends—who already had enough of their own, thank you anyway.

So now they share the "sprayed" section with budded stalks of chrysanthemums about to bloom, plus some late tomatoes and a couple of stalks of beets from an old pack of seed tossed into the vacancy—just in case.

With unusual ruthlessness, I "did away" recently with several flowering plants that were thriving in the vegetable garden. These branched-sunflowers bore plentiful four-inch blooms with dainty, pale-yellow petals contrasting to a rich, black center. Bees loved 'em and they promised to provide seeds for the finches.

But they became top heavy with growth and took to leaning down on their neighbors. After the sunflowers toppled onto the ripening Winter Keeper tomatoes, plopped down over the lima bean row and tripped me several times with their take-over ways, they became the newest layer on the compost pile.

Even while the geraniums and impatiens continue to thrive in porch-box and patio containers, their cuttings are taking root in the greenhouse in anticipation of next year's floral color. And, tulip and daffodil bulbs await a few spare minutes for tucking into the ground, with the latest saved to grow a few pots for early forcing.

Fall does begin this week. and there are only 182 days left 'til Spring.

Specific parenting problems and questions from the audience will be used to help participants cope with their child's behavior and the disciplinary action—a positive approach to help parents turn don'ts into do's.

Open to the public, the program is sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension of Berks County. Career moms, working parents, grandparents, child care providers and anyone who cares for children are encouraged to attend.

Registration is $2 per person or $3 per couple. Make checks payable to Berks County Extension Special Account, and mail to: Discipline Seminar, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, P.O. Box 520, Leesport, PA 19533-0520.

As the season has changed from summer to fall, so have the produce counters. The changing picture includes new colors and shapes. Pumpkins, cranberries, Indian corn and winter squash have arrived. There are also better buys in cabbage, cauliflower, celery, carrots, sweet potatoes and onions, as well as increasing supplies of apples, grapes and pears. Just as the produce counters change with the season, so you will want to change your family's meals to feature these fall vegetables.

To add a harvest touch to fall meals, try the different varieties of squash. Some easy-to-find popular types of squash are green zucchini, white scalloped patty pan and yellow summer squash. Some of the harder-rind fall types such as the acorn and bell-shaped butternut are beginning to make their appearance. Plan to serve squash often because it can be prepared in many different and fascinating ways. Succulent squash can be steamed, boiled, baked or stir-fried and it combines deliciously with other foods.

Many recipes that use meat can be made by substituting squash and other vegetables for the meat — such as vegetable lasagna, baked egg dishes.

A fruit we tend to associate with fall is the pear, although the California Bartlett has been around since mid-summer. Now we are beginning to see some of the other varieties that will be with us through the winter months, such as Anjou, Bosc, Seckel and possibly some local varieties.

Ripe, ready-to-eat pears are not commonly sold in most of our produce departments. Unlike most other fruit, if allowed to ripen on the trees, pears will be grainy and mushy and would not hold up in shipment.

To ripen pears, place them in a paper bag or a fruit ripening bowl at room temperature. Pears give off ethylene gas, a natural ripening substance, and keeping this gas enclosed enhances ripening. Some varieties change color from green to yellow, but all will become slightly soft. At this stage, they are ready to eat or they may be stored for a few more days in the refrigerator.

Another fruit that is generally harvested in Pennsylvania in September and October is the apple. Consumers can select from a number of varieties but remember to choose an apple variety best suited for your purposes. Some varieties are better suited for baking, while others are better for eating from your hand.

Varieties that are best to use when making a pie or apple dumpling because they retain their shape when cooked include Rome Beauty, Ida Red and Golden Delicious. A Stayman apple is also excellent for baking while the McIntosh apple is ideal to eat raw, in salads and in sauce. Red Delicious also are good in salads and lunch boxes but are not generally used for baking.

For more information on produce that are harvested this time of year, request the Enjoy Nature's Fresh - Apples, Pears and Squash/Pumpkin. Study Shows Dietitians Need To Rethink Meats

CHICAGO, Ill. — Although research shows deli/prepared meat is the most commonly consumed protein source in the United States, a new study reveals that dietitians continue to give consumers restrictive recommendations about eating these products.

The study's results were used as the basis for a new Meat Board Deli/Prepared Meats Committee advertising campaign aimed at dietitians. The extensive market research asked registered dietitians about their attitudes and recommendations to clients regarding deli/prepared meats, such as sausage, ham, hot dogs, deli roast beef and cold cuts. The Gallup Organization conducted the study for the Meat Board, funded by livestock producer checkoffs and processors.

The findings reveal that dietitians need to rethink their views and consumer recommendations of deli/prepared meats based on the new leaner alternatives available today. Some key points:

- In a typical week, respondents recommended that 5.4 meals should include some type of fresh meat (i.e., beef, pork, lamb or veal). On the contrary, respondents tended to recommend only three meals a week should include deli/prepared meats.
- Dietitians rated ham and deli roast beef most favorably of the products tested. On a 6-point scale (where "6" was high in fat), ham received a 3.1 rating, while deli roast beef received a 3.0. Although luncheon meat received a significantly higher score (5.0) on the fat content scale than ham or deli roast beef, it was lower than the ratings dietitians gave hot dogs, bacon and sausage.
- Almost one-half of dietitians rated deli roast beef and ham to be significantly more acceptable as part of a balanced diet than luncheon meats, hot dogs, bacon and sausage.
- Eighty-seven percent of respondents said they made client recommendations about specific kinds or types of processed meats.
- The most common types of specific recommendations to consumers about processed meats involved low-fat content (59 percent made such recommendations) and low salt or sodium content (30 percent). The only other recommendations given by more than 10 percent of respondents were to read labels for nutritional information (17 percent) and to watch the quantity of processed meats consumed (11 percent).

CHOOSING THE RIGHT SPREAD FOR YOU

At the risk of sounding like a TV commercial, I'm telling you—I hate dry sandwiches! I really enjoy mayonnaise on sandwiches, and I like sandwich spreads made with mayonnaise such as tuna and chicken salad. Are you aware, though, that mayonnaise is almost 100 percent fat? The challenge is coming up with alternatives.

With school back in session, sandwich making is an interest of many families. Healthy, tasty sandwiches are enjoyed by most of us year round, so we want to choose spread that adds the flavor we enjoy while maintaining a healthy diet!

One alternative to mayonnaise is "salad dressing," and it's been on the market for years. Salad dressing is made by replacing some of the oil in mayonnaise with water and starch or other thickeners. Therefore, salad dressings contain less fat and almost half as many calories.

What if your taste buds demand mayonnaise? Try using less. some people blend mayo with plain low-fat yogurt. Another tip is to add chopped pickle to either mayo, "lite" mayo, or plain yogurt.

Mustard is usually the dressing of choice for those looking for a low-fat spread. If you are on a low-sodium diet you need to be aware that mustard contains a fair amount of sodium. Do you know that Dijon-style mustard contains twice as much sodium as prepared yellow mustard? You can make your own mustard by combining dry mustard powder, vinegar, and water.

Horseradish adds a strong dash of flavor with no fat. Americans are experimenting more with salsa as a sandwich spread. An Austrian dish combines horseradish with applesauce to serve on roast beef.

Cucumber and cream cheese is one of my favorites. Using low-fat cream cheese and limiting the amount used does control the fat content. I cut my cucumbers thick since I know they can be liberally added to a healthy diet.

Don't forget that tomatoes and lettuce can add zip to an otherwise dry sandwich. Did you ever try tomatoes, lettuce, cucumbers, and cream cheese on pita bread? It's another of my favorites.

Sandwiches are such a convenient meal. With thought and experimentation you can make sandwiches that are tasty as well as healthy.

Natural Shields Control Rot In Apples

KEARNEYSVILLE, W. Va. — Apples and peaches are getting a helping hand from friendly yeast and bacteria that protect the fruit from rotting.

U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists are finding that the natural microorganisms can act, in effect, as a shield against diseases that cause the fruit to rot.

One defense is a protective coating made from a yeast that fends off attacking fungi after the fruit is harvested. Biotechnology Research and Development Corp. of Peoria, Ill., and USDA's Agricultural Research Service have signed a cooperative research and development agreement to develop and commercialize the coating.

Plant pathologist Charles L. Wilson of USDA's research agency said the yeast is a natural ingredient of the fruit's surface. Not enough yeast is present to control rot, but adding sugar in the coating prompts the yeast to multiply and combat the fungi.

Wilson said synthetic chemical fungicides have been used to control rot-producing fungi and other post-harvest diseases. But many of these fungicides have been taken off the market because of food safety concerns, leaving growers witih few weapons to fight these diseases that can destroy about 25 percent of their crop.

When it comes to nutrition, the apple wins high marks. Researchers are constantly developing new varieties to give people a greater assortment of tastes. Some are better tasting but don't work well for baking.

Already more than 2,500 apple varieties are available and new varieties are on the tree. Here are a few common varieties in the state and their best uses.

- McIntosh — excellent raw, in salads, and in sauce.
- Golden Delicious — excellent raw, in salads, and for baking.
- Red Delicious — good raw and in salads.
- Ida Red — excellent raw, in salads, sauces, and for baking.
- Rome Beauty — excellent for baking. Good in salads and sauce. Fair for eating.
- Stayman — excellent for baking. Good raw and in salads.

Plant Bulbs Now

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.)—If you would like to have flowers in your yard as early as next January, spend an autumn afternoon planting bulbs.

Spring-flowering bulbs are available from garden centers and catalogs during September and October. "They're easy to plant and live for years," says Dr. J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "Best of all, they start brightening the landscape while it's still late winter."

For a steady procession of blooms from late January to late July, Nuss offers several planting suggestions:

Galanthus, or snow drops, bloom the earliest. "If you've wondered what those little white, bell-shaped flowers are blooming in people's yards starting in late January, they're probably snowdrop," says Nuss.

Species crocuses start blooming in late January or early February, followed by large-flowered Dutch crocuses in February and March. Also blooming at this time are winter aconite, which resemble low - growing buttercups; chionodoxa, which have pink, white or blue star-shaped flowers; and squill, which have deep-blue flowers.

Anemone blanda bloom in March and April and have purple, pink or white flowers that look like asters. Also blooming at this time are grape hyacinths, with grape-like clusters of purple or white flowers, and iris reticulata, which looks like other irises but grow only five inches tall.

"Some more familiar flowers also bloom during these months, such as hyacinths; double early, Kaufmanniana and Fosteriana tulips; and miniature and trumpet daffodils," says Nuss.

Darwin hybrid tulips bloom in April and May, along with Triumph, Gregii, single-late, double-late, lily-flowered, Rembrandt and parrot tulips. They come in an array of heights, colors and markings. "some interesting smaller bulbs, such as checkered lilies and spanish bluebells, also bloom in late spring," says Nuss.

For flowers in June, plant Dutch irises, which look like slender bearded irises, and allium a colorful and sweeter-scented relative of the onion. Alliums vary greatly in size and color—from four-inch stems with clusters of yellow flowers, to giant allium, which can reach three feet tall and is topped with a sphere of purple flowers five inches in diameter.

"You also can plant German irises in the fall," says Nuss. "These are the familiar irises with the fruity scent and large, bearded flower. They grow from rhizomes planted about three inches deep, ;and they extend the blooming season to the end of July."

Flowering bulbs can be planted in formal or informal beds, rock gardens and in established ground covers. Most prefer partial shade, so avoid planting them where they will receive direct midday sun. Heated basement walls can damage bulbs, so plant them at least five feet away from foundations.

"Keep in mind that you can fit a lot of bulbs in one space by planting large bulbs, covering them with two inches of soil and planting small bulbs on top of them," says Nuss. "You also can plant shallow-rooted annuals on top of bulbs." Bulbs need good drainage and a high amount of organic matter, so if your soil is mostly sand or clay, mix in peat moss or compost until organic matter is about 25 percent of volume.

When planting tulips, daffodils and other large bulbs, dig out the entire bed to a depth of about 8 inches. Arrange the bulbs six inches apart with the pointed ends up. Smaller bulbs such as crocuses and grape hyacinths can be planted three inches apart and five inches deep.

Before covering the bulbs, add one rounded tablespoon per square foot of either a sulfur-coated, slow-release fertilizer, or one handful per square foot of bone meal plus one tablespoon per square foot of 8-8-8 or 10-10-10 fertilizer.

You then can replace half the soil and water the area thoroughly, add the remaining soil, and water again. "A three-inch layer of wood chips, peat moss or bark will retain moisture and keep mud from splashing on the flowers next spring," says Nuss.

Squirrels and chipmunks dig up bulbs, especially crocuses. "If you anticipate problem, spread fine-mesh chicken wire over the soil and then apply mulch,"says Nuss.

When shoots start breaking through the soil in the spring, sprinkle a second application of fertilizer around them. As flowers fade, cut them off so they don't go to seed and rob nourishment from the bulbs.

"The foliage gathers nutrients of the next season's growth, so allow it to completely die before removing it," says Nuss. "Other than these few steps, spring-flowering bulbs don't need much attention. They'll come back year after year, just when winter seems as though it never will end."

IDA'S NOTEBOOK

There are some jobs that can be done almost without thinking. One such job was picking grapes off the bunches to make juice. This year I got many more than in previous years. It is times like this when one remembers things that happened long ago.

My mind wandered over events that happened in the 1940s during the war. You see, my sister and I took a bus to New York City for four days. Even now, I am amazed that our parents allowed us to go as they were very strict.

However, we had a wonderful time as we purchased a "Visitor's Guide" for 35¢ and traveled all over New York City on buses and subways. Our room in Times Square Hotel cost us three dollars and the subway was a nickel. We ate meals at Child's restaurants for fifty cents.

One day we went to Coney Island and spent hours on the beach. Here we saw the parachute drop which was an amusement that I had been on at the World's Fair in 1939. We visited museums, large cathedrals, and enjoyed plays on Broadway at night. The Bronx Zoo was interesting as was the experience of eating for the first time in a Chinese restaurant. They gave us so much food but only charged us for the amount that we ate.

When we got separated on a subway, it was almost a disaster. But, we managed to meet again at the same station—the doors shut automatically with one of us on each side. New York City was a big town full of soldiers and sailors during the war. It was a new experience for two country girls but luckily everything turned out all right.

Apple Appeal

CANNED APPLE PIE FILLING

4½ cups sugar
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup cornstarch
10 cups water
3 tablespoons lemon juice

Peel and slice apples, set aside. Mix all the ingredients together, except the apples and lemon juice. Cook over medium heat until bubbly, then add lemon juice. Seal, process in pressure cooker 10 minutes at 10 pounds pressure.

Contributor writes that this is a great way to use excess apples. When needed, she makes a pie crust, fills with one-quart of canned apple pie filling, covers with crust or other desired topping and bakes at 400 degrees until browned. Raisins can be added and icing put on top for French apple pie.

Instead of using a pie crust topping, she often uses this crumb topping:

Crumb Topping:
½ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup flour

Mix together and spread on top of apples before putting in oven.

Cabbage-Filled Peppers

12 sweet peppers, red or green or both
1 large head cabbage
2 tablespoons salt
4 cups vinegar
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons whole yellow mustard seeds
12 whole cloves

Shred the cabbage fine and sprinkle 2 tablespoons salt over it. Let stand overnight.

The next day squeeze water out of it and fill the peppers with cabbage. Place tops on peppers and fasten with toothpicks.

4½ cups apple cider vinegar
3¾ cups water
7½ cups sugar
4 teaspoons whole cloves
4 sticks cinnamon
6½ cubes of fresh ginger root
Yield, about 9 pints.

Wash apples, leaving stems attached. Puncture the skin of each apple four times with an ice pick or toothpick. Mix vinegar, water, and sugar, and bring to a boil. Add spices tied in a spice bag or cheesecloth. Using a blancher basket or sieve, immerse one-third of the apples at a time in the boiling vinegar/syrup solution for 2 minutes. Place cooked apples and spice bag in a clean 1- or 2-gallon crock and add hot syrup. Cover and let stand overnight. Remove spice bag, drain syrup into a large saucepan and reheat to boiling. WARM CHOCOLATE DIPPING SAUCE WITH APPLE KABOBS

½ cup sugar
⅓ cup Dutch-processed cocoa powder
1 tablespoon cornstarch
1 teaspoon instant coffee powder (optional)
¾ cup water
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 Granny Smith apple, cored and cut into 8 chunks
1 Red Delicious apple, cored and cut into 8 chunks
1 Golden Delicious apple, cored and cut into 8 chunks

In small saucepan, combine sugar, cocoa, cornstarch, and coffee powder; stir in water. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in butter and corn syrup. Pour into serving bowl.

On skewers, alternately threat a chunk each of Granny Smith apple, Red Delicious apple, and Golden Delicious apple to make kabobs. Serve with warm chocolate sauce.

CRANBERRY APPLE SORBET

2 Golden Delicious apples, peeled, cored, and coarsely chopped
2 cups cranberry juice

In medium-size saucepan, combine apples and juice; heat to boiling. Reduce heat to simmer, cover and cook 20 minutes or until apples are very soft. Uncover and set aside to cool to room temperature.

In food processor, puree apple and juice mixture until smooth. Pour into ice-cream maker and process into sorbet following manufacturer's directions. If not using an ice-cream maker, pour puree into a 9-inch square pan. Cover and freeze until partially frozen — about 2 hours. Meanwhile, chill a large bowl and beaters of an electric mixture. Place puree in chilled bowl and beat on low speed until pieces are broken up, then beat on high speed until smooth and fluffy — about 1 minute. Pack sorbet into freezer container and freeze several hours before serving.

Tree Troubles Tough To Treat

RUTGERS, N.J. — When county residents bring samples from trees taht are in trouble to the Extension Center we may or may not be able to pinpoint the cause. If a disease or insect is affecting the foliage or twigs, we can usually identify it and make a recommendation on what to do about it. Often the recommendation is simply reassurance that the problem is not serious and not a threat to the life of the tree.

But tree troubles are often far more complex than simple disease or insect damage to foliage. Many problems are not related to diseases or insects at all. Conditions affecting the roots and trunk can not be detected examining a small branch or leaf sample. Trees that are in trouble and are valuable in the landscape or may present a hazard in the landscape will generally need to be evaluated on site by trained arborists or other tree care specialists.

Extension would ask the following questions when trying to assess possible causes of tree problems. If you have trees that are not healthy — general lack of bigor, small leaves, leaves off color, limbs dying are some typical symptoms — ask yourself these same questions.

Is the tree recently transplanted? It may take up to several years for a large transplant to become reestablished and during this time water is critical. Drought can stress well-established trees and new trees are even more vulnerable.

Is the tree on a newly developed site? Unfortunately, new home builders and buyers may pay a premium for wooded lots not knowing how the mature trees were cared for during construction. Trees in new developments may decline over many years and finally die because of construction damage.

Has the soil level around the tree been changed within the last several years? Most potentially devastating are additions of soil over the root area of trees. As little as two inches or heavy soil has been known to kill sensitive trees.

Has the tree been subject to drought within recent years? Most of us would answer yes to this question. Cycles of drought and wet over the last decade are certainly taking their toll throughout the region.

Is the tree in an area of poor water drainage? Have any recent changes in the general area possibly affected the run off or water table in the area? Areas of known poor drainage limit the varieties of trees that are suitable. Changes in water conditions in the soil can drastically affect the root health of sensitive trees.

Might the tree have girdling root? Maples are most subject to this condition in which a root or root strangles other roots or the trunk. Girdling roots may or may not be visible. Diagnosing and correcting girdling root is a job for trained tree specialists.

This list of possible causes of tree troubles could go on and on. Some others: septic tank near tree, lightening strike, gas line, leak, herbicides, air pollution, and weed wackers and mowers. Also, wires, cords, etc. around trunk, temperature extremes, tree is of borderline hardiness, road salt, soil compaction from people or vehicles, improper planting, and excessive fertilizer.

Diagnosing tree problems is challenging. When a tree has been under stress from any of the above causes, secondary disease and insect may be present, compounding the difficulty of making a diagnosis. At that point, no definitive diagnosis may be possible, no "cure" available or feasible, and no certain prognosis given.

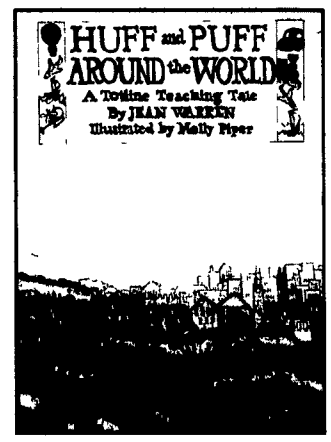
Snapshots From The York Fair

These baby chicks were on display at the York Fair this week and they captured the attention of Abby and Christopher Distefano. These children of Christopher and Tammy Distefano from York are both four-years-old because they are twins.

Kelly Johnson is also four-years-old and had her hands full at the York Fair with these twin calves named Alfalfa and Spanky. The calves were born on Sept. 5 and they were in a kissing mood. But Kelly knew calves were that way, so she had no real problem. Kelly is the daughter of Tom and Cindy Johnson, York.

Huff And Puff Around The World



In the book, "Huff and Puff Around the World," two lovable clouds circle the globe and discover new places. Although the story is delightful to read aloud for children 2 to 6 years old and an easy-reader for children 6 to 8 years old, the most outstanding feature of this book is that it includes 16 pages of songs and activities to delight young children.

Learn to make wooden-spoon dolls from Eastern Europe, African drums, Russian nesting dolls, a Chinese fan, and even an Egyptian pyramid.

With adult supervision, kids can bake a breafast cake like children in Finland enjoy or make your own fortune cookies or African peanut squares.

The activities in the book have been written so that children in first, second, and third grade can follow most of the directions with minimal adult help.

The 32-page book, written by Jean Warren and illustrated by Molly Piper, is available in hardback for $12.95 or a glossy, colorful paperback for $5.95.

Look for it in your local bookstore or order it and other totline teaching tales from Warren Publishing House, Inc., 11625-G Airport Rd. Everett, WA 98204; (206) 353-3100.

How To Choose A Good Children's Book

(NAPS) — Children's books come in all subjects, sizes, shapes and textures. But which ones are best for your child? With the help of this five-point checklist from The ABC's of Raising a Reader, a limited edition magazine sponsored by Sesame Street Parents and Post™ Alpha-Bits™ cereal, the task of deciding is easy:

• Choose books appropriate for your child: Match your child's interests and development level with the topics and styles of picture books.

• Look for a good story: Children like a good plot. What's important is that the story strike an emotional chord in the child, making them laugh, feel sad, or simply happy to have met the book's

Late Summer Is The Time To Revitalize Lawns

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) - After the hot weather and heavy use during the summer, your lawn may be showing some wear and tear. Now is the time to get it in shape for next spring.

"September is an excellent time to revitalize your lawn," says Dr. Peter Landschoot, assistant professor of turfgrass science in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "It takes only a few steps to help grass regain the lush green growth it had in the spring.

"If you fertilize now, you'll give turf the nutrients it needs to recover from the stresses of summer as well as from disease and insect problems," he says. "Fertilizer also helps grass revive harsh winters."

Fertilizer should be applied with a spreader. Never apply more than the amount recommended on the label - too much can burn grass or cause excessive growth.

September also is a good time to dethatch and to do away with broadleaf weeds, such as dandelions. A broadleaf weed herbicide kills the entire plant - roots included - so weeds cannot regenerate.

"Annual grasses, such as crabgrass, will be killed by the first frost, so there's no point in trying to control these weeds in late summer," says Landschoot. "Use a preemergence herbicide on them in the spring, and keep the turf dense so they do not receive light or space to grow."

Late summer also is the time to think about reseeding bare spots or troublesome areas on your lawn. Perennial ryegrass is a good turf species to use for patchwork.

"First, remove all vegetation from the area," says Landschoot. "Then work up the soil with a rake or rototiller so that it's loose and free of large clumps."

Lightly disperse seed over the bare spot. "Don't make the planting too dense," he advises. "There should be about a quarter of an inch between each perennial ryegrass seed. Rake the area to cover the seeds with soil, being careful not to bury them too deep. The seeds should be no more than a quarter of an inch below the surface, with some remaining on top of the soil. A lightweight lawn roller passed over the spot will insure good seed-to-soil contact."

Cover the area with clean straw to protect the seeds, but do not smother them. "You should be able to see soil through the straw layer," says Landschoot. "As a final precaution, put up a small fence to keep people and animals from walking on the seedbed."

Perennial ryegrass will germinate in five to seven days, provided the surface of the soil is kept moist. Once the grass is about an inch tall, carefully remove the mulch.

"Trial and error is the best way to determine when to cut new grass," says Landschoot. "Mow a small area. If this pulls up the grass, wait. If it stays rooted, you can keep cutting."

If your lawn is composed mostly of weeds, undesirable grass or dead areas, you might want to renovate it entirely. For more information, request the free fact sheet, "Turfgrass Establishment," from the Penn State Cooperative Extension office in your county.

Good Children's Book

characters. Be sure to select a story that leaves the child with a sense of satisfaction.

• Select books with illustrations that add to the story: Look for a variety of illustrative styles. The best are those that work witih the text, carry the story line and reflect the book's tone and interest.

• Pick books with wonderful language: Children like words that are silly, rhyme or roll off their tongues. Books with familiar refrains ("fee, fi, fo, fum!") and repeating events ("Jack went up the beanstalk") are also excellent choices.

For more great ideas to guide children into the joys of reading and writing, turn to the other five articles contained in The ABC's of Raising a Reader. The full-color, 12-page magazine comes complete with a pull-out Muppet poster and is available free-of-charge from July 1 through the early fall only on specially marked packages of Post Alpha-Bits cereal.

ABA Announces Princess Contest

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — A new opportunity for young Ayrshire breeders will open at the North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE) on Nov. 5 — an Ayrshire princess contest.

"We have many qualified junior members who would like to take an active role in the promotion of the Ayrshire breeders," said program coordinator Jill Stahl. "The contest offers them a way to promote and encourage other members — both junior and senior."

The princess will reign for one year, representing the Ayrshire Association at various national events, including the national Ayrshire convention, which will be held in Wisconsin in 1995. Her goal will be to be an effective, positive voice for Ayrshires, promoting the breed across the nation.

On Saturday, Nov. 5, during the North American International Livestock Exposition, the Kentucky Ayrshire Club will arrange and host a national contest to name the national Ayrshire princess.

Beginning at 10 a.m., at the fairgrounds, contestants will answer questions about their involvement with Ayrshires.

The evening gown portion of the contest will be held at 7 p.m. on the Expo grounds. The new Ayrshire princess will be crowned at the conclusion of this portion. People are encouraged to come and watch at no charge.

Interested participants should contact Larry Yeager of the Kentucky Ayrshire Club at (606) 734-0671. There is a $25 entry fee, which should be made payable to the Kentucky Ayrshire Club. The contest is open to all female junior members of the Association who have never married and never had a child.

Cookbook Profits To Benefit Mission Projects

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ANDREAS (Schuylkill Co.) — Shelly Taylor knows what it's like to be a missionary.

She lived in Jamaica as a child when her parents were missionaries. Later, she graduated from a four-year Bible college and spend two months at a mission station above the Artic Circle.

Now, Shelly is married to Cliff and has two children, Rebekah, 3, and Luke, 15 months.

But Shelly hasn't forgotten the constant need that missionaires have for finances. Shelly wanted to help support some missionaires. Like most young families, she and her husband have very limited resources. So, Shelly decided to publish a cookbook and donate the profits to mission work.

She asked her grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins to contribute. They compiled about 300 recipes, which they had professionally printed in a cookbook published by G&R Publishing Company, 507 Industrial Street, Waverly, IA 50677.

The cookbook is dedicated to the memory of Shelly's great grandparents, Lewis and Eva Moyer, who both died within three weeks of each other in 1990. For years, about 50 to 60 family members gathered at the Moyer farm for holiday meals.

The Moyers had nine children. It is these children and their families who contributed the recipes for the cookbook.

Shelly grew up with six sisters and one brother. It's traditional for her family to eat every Sunday dinner at Shelly's parents' (Russel and Diane Snyder's) home. Her grandmother, Verna Moyer Faust, always brings the dessert.

Last year, in order to make things more simple for the large family gathering, it was decided to have a cold meal.

But the family missed the traditional dinner with everyone contributing.

Shelly's father said, "There will be no more of this. We need a cooked meal."

Most of the family's favorites tend toward Pennsylvania Dutch cooking according to Shelly, but there are some other styles accumulated from friends of the family.

Shelly and her family now live in one of four houses on the Moyer's family farm in Andreas.

The Shellys do not work on the farm, but other family members, Donald and Daryl Moyer, raise grain crops, beef cattle, pigs, and chickens on the farm that has been in the family since 1906.

Cliff works as a sawyer, and Shelly is a full-time mother. The couple play piano, organ, flute, and other instruments for their church, Overcomers Holiness Church. The church also uses their building for a school, Overcomers Christian Academy. Cookbook profits will be used for its building fund; for the Dine Missions who work with Navajo Indians in New Mexico; for the Gospel Proclaimers Mission in Mexico; and for the clinic operated by Holiness Pilgrim Mission of Haiti.

Cook's Question Corner

ANSWER—Cathy Christ, Parkesburg, wanted a recipe for homemade dog biscuits. Thanks to Kathy Werner, West Grove; Naomi Blank, Kinzers; Mrs. Robin Svec, White Hall, Md.; and Loretta Young, Leechburg, for sending recipes.

Homemade Dog Biscuits

3 cups canned beef or chicken broth
3 cups all-purpose flour
3 cups whole wheat flour
2 cups bulgur or cracked wheat
1 cup cornmeal
½ cup powdered non-fat milk
4 tablespoons salt

Preheat oven to 300 degrees. Mix together dry ingredients. Add broth. Dough will be very stiff. On a lightly floured surface roll dough to approximately ¼ -inch thickness. Cut biscuits to desired size. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush lightly with milk and and bake 45 minutes. Turn off oven and leave biscuits in oven overnight. (Use batter all at once — it does not keep overnight — it turns into cement). Biscuits are very crunchy and not at all fattening.

Liver Treats For Dogs

1 pound beef or pork liver
1 cup flour
1 cup corn meal
Garlic and onion salt to taste.

Grine liver in blender; mix in rest of ingredients with wet or buttered spoon, it is very sticky. Pat with wet hands onto cookie sheet until about ½ inch to ¾ inch thick. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Remove and cut into any shape desired.

Doggie Biscuits

3 cups flour
3 cups whole wheat flour
2 cups cracked wheat
1 cup cornmeal
½ cup instant nonfat dry milk
4 tablespoons salt
3 cups chieck broth (or water)
Milk

In large bowl, mix first six ingredients; add 2 cups broth and mix well with hands. Dough should be very stiff, like breat dough; add more broth if ncessary. Preheat oven to 300 degrees. On lightly floured surface, roll dough to ¼ thick. Cut with dog bone-shaped cutters or knife. Put on ungreased baking sheet; brush each lightly with milk. Bake 45 minutes. Turn off oven but leave in overnight. Makes about 3½ dozen.

Dog Biscuits

3½ cup whole wheat flour
2 cups Quaker Oats
1 cup milk
½ cup water
2 beef bouillon cubes
½ cup meat drippings

Beat the milk, water, drippings, and bouillon cubes until all is dissolved. Pour in the dry ingredients and mix well. Press out on an ungreased cookie sheet and cut into squares.

Bake at 350 degrees one hour, then turn off oven heat and leave biscuits in the oven until they harden.

Dog Biscuits

1 cup flour
1 cup whole wheat flour
½ cup wheat germ
½ cup powdered milk
½ teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter
1 egg
1 teaspoon brown sugar

Combine first five ingredients in bowl; cut in butter until the mixture resembes corn meal. Beat sugar with egg; stir in. Add water gradually as necessary to make stiff dough, about ½ cup. Knead on floured board until smooth and pliable, then roll out to ¼ inch thick; cut in desired shapes. Bake at 325 degrees about 30 minutes. Makes about 2 dozen biscuits.

Homemade Dog Biscuits

4 cups whole wheat flour
2 eggs
1 cup broth (chicken, beef, etc.)
1 teaspoon garlic salt
11 teaspoon onion salt
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1½ to 2 teaspoons wheat germ

Mix all together, roll out and cut. Bake at 350 degrees until hard, one hour or more. Cut in strips, 5 to 6 inches long.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Lebanon Puppy Club

The Lebanon 4-H Extra-Special Puppy Club has been engaged in various activities in the past few months.

On July 18, the club visited the Palmyra Public Library. All of the children loved to pet and cuddle the dogs after the demonstration.

The visit to the Lebanon Area Fair was also a success. The club put the dogs through their paces, gave a demonstration, and allowed the audience to pet the dogs.

This fall and winter the club will be going to various places, such as Hershey's Chocolate World, area Halloween parades, and miniature golfing.

Dog Biscuits Deluxe

2 cups whole wheat flour
¼ cup cornmeal
½ cup soy flour
1 teaspoon bone meal
1 teaspoon sea salt
¼ cup sunflower or pumpkin seeds
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup unsulfured molasses
2 eggs mixed with ¼ cup milk

Mix dry ingredients and seeds together. Add butter, molasses, and all but one tablespoon of egg/milk mixture. Add more milk if needed to make firm dough. Knead a few minutes, let dough rest ½ hour or more. Roll out to ½ inch. Cut into shapes and brush with the rest of the egg/milk mixture.

Bake on cookie sheets at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until lightly toasted. To make biscuits harder, leave them in the oven with the heat turned off for an hour or more.

JOHN DEERE MAXIMIZER SIDEHILL 9500 COMBINE

Run faster, reap more grain over rolling ground

All the capacity and grain quality Maximizer combines are famous for, plus the ability to handle your hills – that's the Maximizer Sidehill 9500 Combine.

Adjustments to changes in terrain are quick and smooth, thanks to the automatic hydraulic-leveling system that keeps the combine body level on slopes up to 18 percent. You can productively harvest slopes up to 30 percent.

You enjoy outstanding comfort – the cab stays comfortably level, too. And because the leveling system maintains uniform crop flow, you often can run faster with less grain loss and fewer unloading stops.

You'll also appreciate the 235-hp turbocharged engine. This rugged power plant provides the exclusive John Deere "power bulge" and "power boost." This electronic engine control gives you extra pull for uphill climbs, soft soils, and unloading on-the-go.

For harvesting that's less of an uphill battle, climb in and check out the Maximizer Sidehill 9500 Combine at your John Deere dealer.

FFA Happenings

Jon Beaver, Megan Frederic, and Bryan Hoover of New Holland are greeted in Washington, D.C., by conference director Shane Black, rith, of Athens, Ala.

Attends Washington Leadership Conference

Jon Beaver, Megan Frederick, and Bryan Hoover of the Grassland FFA Chapter of New Holland attended the 1994 Washington Leadership Conference in the nation's capitol. The conference is an activity of the National FFA Organization in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Education.

The week-long program helps FFA members improve their leadership skills, develop an understanding of the nation's heritage and prepare for leadership roles in their chapters and communities. Sessions on self-confidence, goal setting, and team building were combined with discussions on personal development, motivation, and citizenship to help members become effective leaders in the science, business and technology of agriculture.

Visits to Mount Vernon, the Smithsonian Institution, Arlington National Cemetery, the Jefferson Memorial and other historic sights in Washington were included in the conference.

A highlight of the week was a visit made to the office of Congressman/Senator Arlen Specter, of Pennsylvania, Harris Wofford of Pennsylvania.

Hang Up On Telemarketing Fraud

The next time you get a sales call, you may think you've won a big prize or made a smart investment but more often than not, if the offer sounds "too good to be true" — it probably is.

Enterprising swindlers may phone you at all hours with the deal or appeal of a lifetime — free trips or bargain travel packages, great magazine offers or unbeatable investment opportunities. They may also send you postcards promising fabulous "guaranteed" prizes, or ask you for money on behalf of a bogus charity.

"Dishonest telemarketers use high-pressured sales tactics on the telephone to cheat consumers out of $40 billion a year," said John Barker, director of the National Fraud Information Center (NFIC) in Washington, D.C. "However, there are many legitimate companies that conduct business over the phone, so it's extremely important to distinguish an honest telemarketing call from a scam."

To help you avoid becoming an unwitting victim of telemarketing fraud, the NFIC and MasterCard International have created a national public awareness campaign: "Know the difference. Hang up on Fraud." The campaign includes a free consumer's guide that provides extensive information and tips for avoiding telemarketing fraud, such as:

- Ask lots of questions and listen carefully to the telemarketer's answers.
- Refuse to be pressured into sending cash or checks or providing your credit card account number.
- Never provide your bank's name, your checking account number or a copy of your signature.
- Don't be embarrassed to report telemarketing fraud to the NFIC hotline: 1-800-876-7060.

"A reputable telemarketer will answer your questions and be willing to send you written information," said Charlotte Rush, vice president of public affairs for MasterCard International. "And always be absolutely certain the call is legitimate before you provide your credit card account number and its expiration date."

For a copy of "Schemes, Scams and Flim-Flams: A Consumer's Guide to Phone Fraud," call the NFIC toll-free hotline, 1-800-876-7060, or MasterCard International at 1-800-999-5136.

You Ask ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? You Answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for the answers.

"You Ask — You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask — You Answer, Lou Ann Good, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522.

QUESTION — Stanley Siedlecki, Jarrettsville, Md., writes that his woodburning stove emits a strong wood burning smell during humid days and nights. The flue has been cleaned. Is there something that can be done to prevent this odor or condition?

QUESTION — C. Van Horn, Mt. Pleasant Mills, would like to know what works and is safe to remove yellow and grease stains from old china dishes, especially ironstone. She would like something that makes the dishes white again.

QUESTION — E. Otis Dyer, Rehoboth, Mass., would like to know the name of the company in Pennsylvania, the address, and if the company is still in business — the one that makes a farm fence kit consisting of two channel irons and hinges. The farmer supplies the wooden cross piece measuring 2x8-inches and barbwire strands.

QUESTION — Nancy Cummings, Bolivar, would like to know why celery plants go to seed. She has grown celery all her life and the last two years, some of the plants go to seed instead of developing a nice stalk.

QUESTION — A Birdsboro reader would like to know how to remove underarm odor from laundered work clothing. Even after several washings, the smell still clings to the clothing.

QUESTION — A reader would like to know how to remove cloudiness from clear crystal.

ANSWER — Peg Koser of Lancaster wanted to know how to remove odors from plastic containers. Thanks to Sarah Beth Spade, Richfield, who said any brand of toothpaste is good for removing odors from hands after cleaning fish, poultry, and other meats. Then wash with regular dish or hand soap. She suggests trying it on plastic.

ANSWER — D. Newsom, Cooperstown, N.Y., wanted to buy an Aladdin Lamp that is either electric or oil or kerosene, but not the Aladdin mantel type. He wanted the shape, the kind rubbed for a wish in the story of the Magic Lamp. Thanks to a reader who suggests he writes to the L.L. Bean Co., Freeport, Maine.

Ephrata Fair's Grand Slam Award Can Bring In Big $ For Exhibitors

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — You can pitch baseballs at ceramic plates and win a stuffed lion for your sweetheart.

You can spend a lot of money doing that, however.

But if you're smart, you can compete in the Ephrata Fair Grand Slam Award contest and win $250, in addition to premium money for individual exhibits, at this year's fair.

How do you do that? Simple, according to Henry Keener, Clay, co-chairman of the event.

According to Keener, the grand slam contest (which he proposed at the meeting of the fair committee last year) "would consist of the accumulation of points that the exhibitors are gaining in all of the different phases." As the plans were finalized, both youth and open show exhibitors in the grain tent contests have a chance to compete in the Grand Slam. The contest, according to the fair book rules, is based on the total points acquired for all items entered in all 26 classes in the grain tent.

The categories are:

• Section 1 — Grain and Seed Crops. Class 1: corn, yellow dent (10 ears); Class 2: corn, yellow dent (30 ears). Small Grain. Class 3: oats; Class 4: wheat; Class 5: winter barley; Class 6: rye; and Class 7: soybeans.

• Section 2 — Hay. Class 1: alfalfa, first cutting, not over 50 percent of grasses; Class 2: alfalfa, later cutting, not over 50 percent of grasses; Class 3: other legumes, not over 50 percent of grasses; Class 4: grass, first cutting, not over 10 percent legumes. Class 5: grass, second cutting, not over 10 percent legumes; Class 6: mixed hay, any mixture not classified above; and Class 7: summer annual grasses (sorghum, sudan, etc.).

• Section 3 — Silage. Class 1: small grain haylage; Class 2: corn silage; Class 3: high moisture shelled corn; Class 4: high moisture eared corn; Class 5: grass haylage, more than 50 percent grass; and Class 6: legume haylage, more than 50 percent legume.

• Section 5 — Tobacco. Class 1: cured, type 41 (5 stalks, one lath); Class 2: green, type 41 (5 stalks, one lath); and Class 3: Maryland type.

• Section 6 — Adult Farmer Pumpkin Exhibit. Class 1: best shape; Class 2: largest size; and Class 3: best decorated.

An exhibitor can place only one exhibit in each class. Also, premiums are paid only to fifth place. Grand slam points are awarded

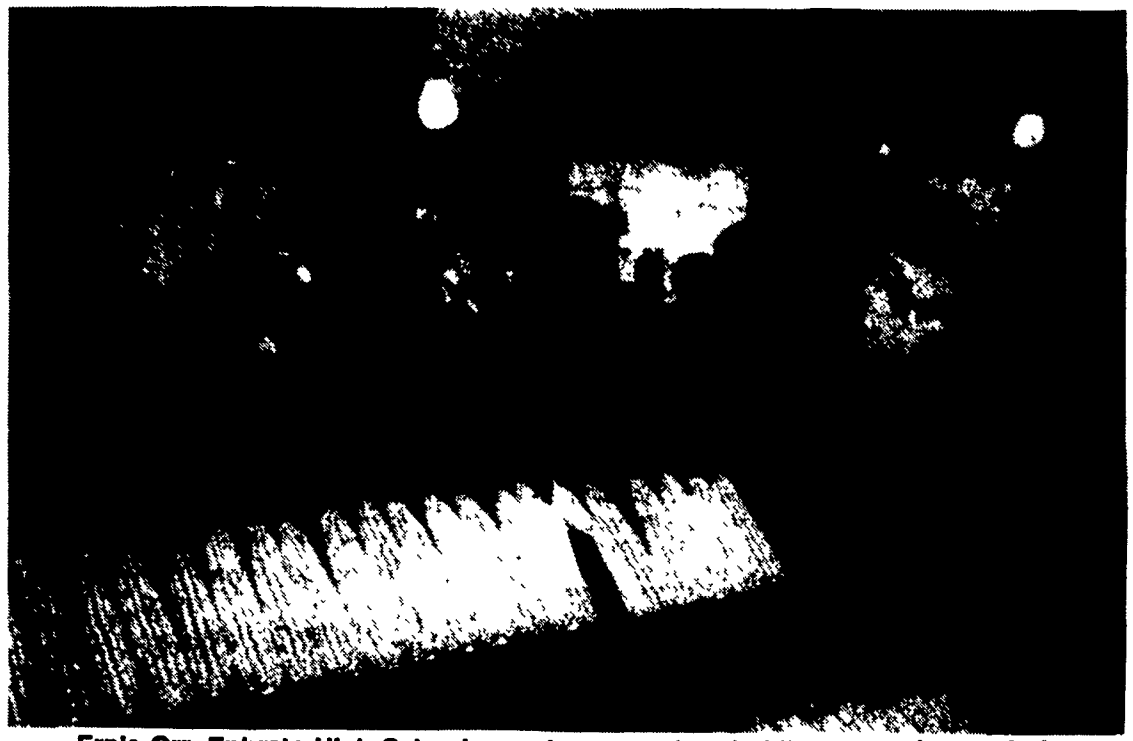
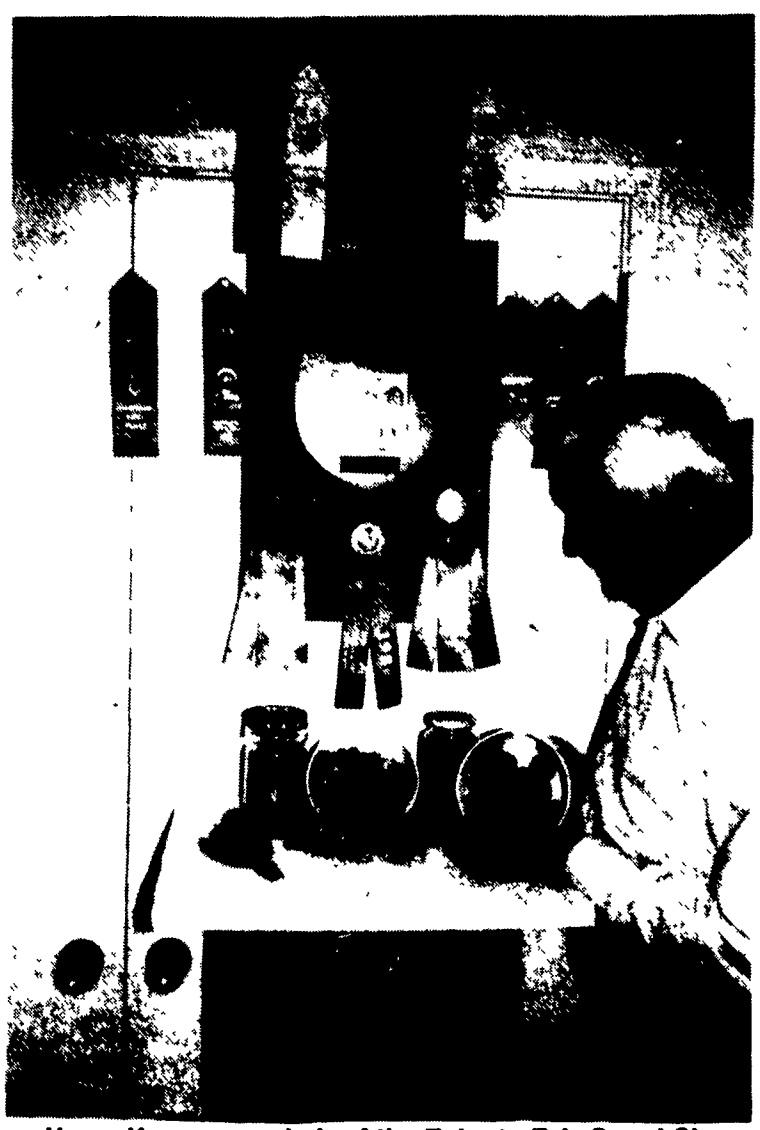
An exhibitor at last year's Ephrata Fair's grain contest inspects a row of ears.

Leroy Horst, Bowmansville, auctioneer, judged last year's Ephrata Fair hay contest. This year the contest will be judged by Frederic H. Stillwagen, Allentown, educational consultant for Cyanamid.



Ernie Orr, Ephrata High School ag science teacher, holding corn, demonstrates what makes quality ears at last year's Ephrata Fair corn contest display.



Henry Keener, co-chair of the Ephrata Fair Grand Slam Award contest, examines some nuts in front of the various awards he has collected in past state and county contests.

PARKER HOUSE ROLLS

6 to 6½ cups flour
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 packages dry yeast
1 cup butter, soften
1 egg
2 cups hot tap water

In a large bowl, combine 2¼ cups flour, sugar, salt and yeast; add ½ cup butter. With mixer at low speed, gradually pour 2 cups hot tap water into dry ingredients. Add egg; increase speed to medium. Beat 2 minutes, occasionally scraping bowl with rubber spatula. Beat in ¾ cup flour. Beat 2 minutes. Add 2½ cups flour to make soft dough. Turn dough onto floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Shape dough into ball and place in greased bowl, turning over so that top of dough is greased. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours. Punch down dough by pushing down center with fist. Then pushing edges of dough into center. Turn dough on floured surface, cover with bowl for 15 minutes and let dough rest. Melt ½ cup butter. Place in bottom of large pan. Roll dough to ½ -inch thickeness. With floured 2¼ -inch round cutter, cut dough. Holding dough circle by edge dip both sides into butter and fold in half. Arrange in rows, nearly touching. Cover and let rise until double (about 40 minutes). Bake at 425 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes until browned. Makes 3½ edozen.

BARBECUED STEAK

1 cup catsup
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup water
¼ cup chopped green peppers
1½ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 pounds round steak, ½ -inch thick

Combine all ingredients except round steak in a saucepan, bring to a boil then simmer gently for about 5 minutes over low heat. Keep barbecue sauce hot. Pound round steak to break connective tissue. Cut into serving-size portions. Place pieces in a large roasting pan. Pour hot barbecue sauce over it. Cover tightly and bake in 325 degree oven for one to two hours or until meat is fork tender. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

"Melts in your mouth."

CHOCOLATE CREAM CHEESE CAKE

3 cups sifted flour
2 cups sugar
½ cup cocoa
2 cups water
⅔ cup oil
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 teaspoons baking soda dissolved in
2 tablespoons vinegar

Beat flour, sugar, cocoa, and water, mix well. Add oil and beat well. Add salt, vanilla, and baking soda dissolved in vinegar, mix well. Pour half of the batter into a well-greased and floured 13x9-inch pan.

Cream Cheese Filling:

8-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar

Mix well. Pour cream cheese filling over batter and balance of cake batter on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes.

Frosting:

½ cup milk
½ cup butter
6-ounces chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla

Bring milk and butter to a boil. Remove from heat and add chocolate chips and vanilla. Stir until chips melt, beat until smooth.

Many of the family members prefer this cake without the frosting.

ITALIAN MEATLOAF

2 pounds ground beef
2 cups cracker crumbs
1 can tomato soup
1 large egg
2 tablespoons dried chopped onion
1¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon garlic salt
1 package Good Seasons Italian salad dressing mix
¼ teaspoon pepper

Fold a 30-inch long piece of foil in half lengthwise. Place in bottom of slow cooker with both ends hanging over top edge of cooker.

In a large bowl, mix ground beef, cracker crumbs, ½ cup tomato soup, egg, onion, salt, garlic salt, Italian mix, and pepper until well blended. Shape into a loaf. Place in slow cooker on top of foil.

Cover tightly and cook on high for 2½ to 3 hours or low for 5 to 6 hours or until beginning to brown and juices run clear. Use ends of foil to lift out meatloaf and transfer to serving platter.

Topping:

Remaining tomato soup
2 tablespoons drippings
¼ cup water

Heat and serve over meatloaf as gravy.

Note: Do not bake this in a conventional oven as it doesn't turn out right.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Executive Board

Berks County Executive Board meeting was held recently in the home of President Fern Phillipy with 25 members enjoying the goodies of a summer picnic.

Janet Schlegel reported on Scenic River days, stating this was the last year for this event. A special thank you to Mary Fizz and her husband for the fruit basket that was donated for the contest Farm Women conducted there.

Berks County Convention plans are progressing very well, that being on October 1, at the Ag. Center, with our annual silent auction. Election of officers, with the vice president and secretary positions open for nominees. Joan Hafer, Lillian Harnish, and Joyce Schott are on the nominating committee.

Dorothy Stricker, State President made pleasing remarks about her surprise birthday luncheon that was held at Chef Alan's by the executive board members of Berks County.

Bingo at the Heim, November 10th.

It was reported five $1,000 scholarships were awarded this past year from the sales of the Farm Women's cookbooks. A hearty thanks to Naomi Bupp for all her efforts and hard work she has put into this wonderful project, and of all persons who purchased the cookbooks.

Reminder for the essay project, children and grandchildren of a farm woman, "How I Spend Rewarding Time With My Family" is due at the convention October 1.

Lancaster Society 20

On September 1, Lancaster Farm Women #20 met at Zion United Church of Christ of New Providence with Helen Tout and Dorothy Eckman as hostesses. Following the refreshments, Helen read Psalm 121 for the Scripture and had a reading "Sunshine."

For the Roll Call each responded with "a house cleaning hint." The treasurer had copies of the 1995 Budget.

On October 1, the society will have a table of baked items and crafts at TownsEdge and help will be needed as well as items to be sold. Beginning in January 1995, the monthly meeting will be held the first Thursday of the month but will be in the forenoon, starting at 10 a.m. Also, there will be a meeting this year in December although it was not originally scheduled.

For the program Dr. Silbert, an ophthamologist working with Dr. Halpern, spoke explaining about the different eye problems, one for example was the drooping eye lids and brows. He showed slides of the wonderful improvements surgery con do for this condition. There is great help or a cure for so many different imperfections today.

The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner". The October meeting will be at the home of Marie Foose with co-hostess Freda Wimer.

Ephrata Fair's Grand Slam Award

only to fifth place.

The contest was established to "stimulate the interest of local people in the exhibits," said Keener.

"I think this might have some appeal to many of the exhibitors," he said. All too often, according to the former dairyman and seed salesman, people bring in their best pumpkins and ignore other items in the barn. They disregard a possible exhibit of 30 ears, or the gallon of shelled corn, or the oats, rye, and other grains that could be potential exhibit winners.

Also, exhibitor numbers have been declining steadily, which is concerning the fair committee.

"For some reason, there are more young people now that have other interests. They are becoming more involved in extracurricular work in school," said Keener.

He said that for those young people planning agricultural careers, they would "do well if they pay heed to what they could learn and accomplish now" by exhibiting in the contest.

Eight sponsors donated $427 for premium money and to help defray contest costs. The donator names will be recorded on a placard at the contest for all to see.

The annual event will be continued if successful, according to Keener. "There's no reason it shouldn't continue to get better," he said.

Monday, Sept. 19 is entry day, with Tuesday the judging date. The grand slam award will be announced following the completion of all judging. Awards are $250 for first place, $100 for first runner-up, and $50 for the second runner-up.

For more information, contact Henry Keener at (717) 738-4031 or Charles Kessler at (717) 738-4841.

A familiar sight at the Ephrata Fair in the park. This year's special attraction will be the Grand Slam Award event for those who participate in the grain, seed, forage, tobacco, and pumpkin contests. An exhibitor can place an exhibit in each class and accumulate points for the Grand Slam Award, worth $250.

No Peeping At Poinsettias

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) - With a little coaxing, you can get poinsettias and flowering cactuses to provide lots of color for this holiday season. But you must be disciplined, says Dr. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Those gorgeous red or white poinsettias actually don't produce showy flowers. Their splashes of color are brightly hued leaf bracts, and the plants require special care to produce them.

If you have a poinsettia from last Christmas, keep its soil moist and fertilize it every seven to 10 days with one-half teaspoon of a soluble fertilizer such as 15-15-15 in a quart of warm water. These fertilizers are available at any garden center.

Poinsettias need long, dark nights to form their colorful bracts. Starting in October, keep your poinsettia in a completely dark place between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. every night until Thanksgiving.

"During these hours, you must stay out of the closet or room where you're keeping the plant," says Nuss. "Even peeking in or briefly turning on the light will disrupt the process."

Between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., set the poinsettia in a warm, sunny window. Soon you will see leaves and flower buds forming. "Poinsettias are sensitive to sudden changes in temperature and improper watering or light conditions," says Nuss. "Keep the temperature between 60 and 75 degrees F, even when the plant is kept in the dark."

After Thanksgiving, you can put your poinsettia out on display. Continue watering, fertilizing and giving it plenty of sun. Beginning in March, stop fertilizing and gradually reduce water to about a cupful once a week, storing the dormant plant in a cool, well-ventilated place out of direct sunlight until May.

In May, cut the plant back to three to five inches high, start watering more and fertilizing regularly, and return the plant to a sunny window. "You can move poinsettias outside into light shade when night temperatures are at least 60 degrees Fahrenheit," says Nuss. "To shape them, pinch back each shoot once during the summer."

When cool nights start in late August, bring your poinsettia inside to a sunny window in a room with temperatures no higher than 60 to 62 degrees Fahrenheit. Starting in October, begin the regimen of long, dark periods once again. "By following all these steps, you can keep poinsettias for years," says Nuss.

Christmas and Thanksgiving cacti are a little easier to care for and produce filmy, orchidlike flowers in red, white or pink. Some of these cacti also will flower at Easter.

"One of the main things to remember about these plants is that they're not like typical cacti," says Nuss. "They require as much water as other houseplants. Their soil should be kept moist but not soggy."

To develop blooms, these cacti require cool temperatures in the fall. If you need to bring your flowering cacti inside before October, keep them out of bright light in a cool room.

Bring them to a sunny window as soon as buds start to show. "If your cactus starts to drop its buds, the plant may need repotting, more sunlight or a lower temperature," says Nuss. "They seldom flower well at temperatures above 70 degrees Fahrenheit."

After the cactus stops blooming, keep it in a cool, sunny window. In summer, put it outside in light shade and leave it there as long as possible into the fall.

"Holiday plants are more challenging than most other houseplants," says Nuss. "But that adds to the enjoyment. It can be very satisfying to coax them into a colorful display."

Why Are Scientific Studies Contradictory?

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — One day the papers sasy decaffeinated coffee is okay, the next day the television news says it is bad. One week oat bran cuts cholesterol, the next week it does not. So what do all these conflicting reports about health and nutrition mean?

Awareness about scientific studies can help people understand why research results may seem contradictory or vague, says a nutritionist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Most occurrences in the biological sciences are not easily explained," says Dr. Madeleine Sigman-Grant, assistant professor of food science. "Scientists must analyze and interpret the data they gather and ask themselves what the results mean. What is the significance and who is affected?"

To be useful, results must be interpreted carefully. "Researchers are very cautious about drawing conclusions, and they try to present results and interpretations in carefully worded reports," Sigman-Grant says. "But scientists may differ about what a set of data indicates."

The media use scientific reports, along with interviews, press releases and comments from other scientists, to compile stories. Unfortunately, journalists, consumer activists and even scientists themselves may apply results in ways not supported by the original study.

"The popular press may imply that a study's results are final, that we have all the answers," Sigman-Grant says. "When a letter report contradicts that story, it's easy to become confused about what all these studies really add up to."

People can jump to mistaken conclusions when reading articles citing scientific reports. "Subtle word differences can dramatically change a story's meaning," says Sigman-Grant. "If a study finds that a behavior 'contributes' to disease risk, it does not mean the behavior causes the disease. If a scientist finds that a food 'reduces the risk' of a disease, it does not mean this food prevents that illness.

"No single study is going to give us a conclusive answer about health and nutrition issues," says Sigman-Grant. "When the media report on new research results, neither scientists nor the public should assume the results are conclusive."

Research begins with a preconceived notion, or hypothesis, about possible outcomes. "However, investigators must keep in mind other factors that might also explain their results," Sigman-Grant says. "If they don't explore other possible explanations, their report may be more open to misinterpretation. This could lead to public misconceptions and could damage the researchers' credibility."

If you are concerned about a science-based story in the popular media, Sigman-Grant suggests getting as much information as you can about it. "Read about the research in several different publications to get a variety of interpretations," she says. "You may find the scientist's original report or journal article in the library. Referring to a reputable source of information can help demystify scientific reports."

Pa. Dairy Princess Pageant Tickets Still Available

CLARION (Clarion Co.) — The 38th Annual Dairy Princess Pageant is to be held at the Sheraton Harrisburg-East on the evening of Sept. 24 with 31 county dairy princesses vying for the title of the state princess.

Tickets are still available at $20 each, though registration deadline is Sept. 21.

Included for the price of the ticket is a milk punch reception starting at 5:30 p.m., followed by a banquet at 6:30 p.m., and the pageant.

The tickets must be prepaid and are available on a first-come basis from Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotion Services Inc., 214 South St., Box 640, Clarion, Pa., 16214. Call Jan Harding at (814) 226-7470.

There is no fee to attend the Saturday morning presentation session, during which the princesses will be judged on the promotion abilities, set from 8 a.m. to noon in the Sheraton Ballroom.

According to a news release, the pageant is annually held on the Saturday evening preceding the start of the week-long Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show (PAADS). The PAADS features national and major regional dairy shows for each of the major dairy cattle breeds and attracts exhibitors from across the U.S. and Canada.

The annual dairy princess pageant is the selection process for the state dairy princess, currently Jennifer Grimes, of Berks County.

Every year, usually in June, Dairy Month, participating counties select dairy princesses to help in the promotion of dairy products. The young women travel to schools, dairy shows, public events, etc., answering questions about the healthfulness of dairy products and specifically work to educate youth about the quality and wholesomeness of milk.

Each of the dairy princesses also attends dairy princess school during July to better prepare them for the public speaking skills and public presentations that they are expected to perform.

And, every year at the beginning of the PAADS, a state dairy princess is selected who reigns from September to September. The role of the state princess is one of high visibility and includes traveling statewide to be part of large promotional events, such as baseball game celebrity milking contests, ice cream promotions, radio and television promotions.

The pageant itself ends two full days of activities and interviews for the contestants. Four judges, all from out of state, select seven finalists and then the state dairy princess and two alternates.

In addition, there are monetary awards presented to the princess and the alternates. As a result of a grant from Sire Power Inc., and several anonymous individuals, the princess will receive $1,200, and each of the two alternates will receive $600.

Furthermore, two of the 31 contestants will receive $100 awards for outstanding original dairy promotions for school children and there will be two $100 awards for the best speeches designed for adult audiences.

There are also two $50 awards for compiling scrapbooks which chronicle county dairy princess activities to date.

The contestants themselves select a "Miss Congeniality" award winner.

In addition, the Tina Schultz Memorial Award, an individual award of $300, will be given to the young lady who stood out as the outstanding dairy promoter during her county reign. The award is given in memory and honor of the outstanding young lady, who in May 1986 succumbed to cancer, during her reign as Huntingdon County's dairy princess.

W.Va. Holds Dairy Replacement, Genetic Sale

MOUNDSVILLE, W.Va. — Sale prices averaged slightly lower on dairy animals consigned during the recent 27th Dairy Heifer and Replacement and Genetic Sale, and the West Virginia State Sale, held in Moundsville, W.Va.

The sale price for the replacement and genetic sale averaged $1,278.41, according to a news release this week. Wile the average for the state sale was not reported, it was down by almost $200 from last year, according to the release.

The top selling animal of the dairy heifer and replacement and genetic sale was Hillmont Ryan Kimba, bred to Bis-May S-E-L Mountain, consigned by Kimberly Fike, of Aurora, W.Va. She sold for $1,650. The buyer was not reported.

The sale offers youth an opportunity to merchandise some of their offspring and Josh McCord, from Northern Panhandle 4-H, had the highest selling animal among the 4-H consignments, with MLCF Jarvis Question Trisha, bred to La-Poe Michangello-ET.

Consignments from Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and Canada were offered this year during the West Virginia State Sale. Donnie and Donna Alt, of Keyser, W.Va., consigned the highest selling animal, Rainbow-C Blackstar Taffy-ET, fresh August 15, that was purchased for $2,000.

Shaland Holsteins of Scio, Ohio, consigned a week-old calf, out of dam Shaland Michael Vicky and sire Miley BS NB Gerhardt, that sold for $425.

According to sale manager Denny Remsburg, the economy of the dairy industry and crop prices apparently kept prices received down this year, but provided an opportunity to purchase quality animals, and promote marketing efforts.

The location for the 1995 is yet to be determined.

Vermont DHIA, Raleigh DRPC Conduct Remote Printing Trial

RALEIGH, N.C. — Vermont DHIA and DRPC Raleigh are conducting a remote printing pilot project in an effort to research the feasibility, practicality and efficiency of localized printing of all DHI management reports at the Vermont DHIA office in White River Junction, Vt.

This joint pilot project on remote printing is the first of its kind in the DRPC Raleigh service area. It is being done in hopes that delivery of valuable and time sensitive DHI management reports can be improved.

Vermont DHIA members have experienced 100 percent electronic input of all test day data for nearly two years via TPE, DART-Plus or PCDART. This rapid test day data input and one day delivery of samples to the Vermont DHIA milk analysis lab in White River Junction has resulted in an average turnaround time of only 2.9 days (from test day until processed reports are mailed from DRPC Raleigh). However, U.S. Postal Service delivery of DHI reports within the Vermont service area seems to vary greatly.

One year ago, Vermont DHIA introduced a somatic cell count "hot sheet" which is printed and mailed from the lab in White River Junction the same day samples are tested. This "hot sheet" is routinely delivered to members by mail in one day. By printing and mailing processed DHI reports in White River Junction, Vermont DHI members hope to take advantage of local one day delivery and significantly reduce overall turnaround time for all reports.

During the pilot project, processed data included on the monthly report and herd summary is to be transmitted by telephone to the Vermont DHIA office for printing on their laser printer (remote) and mailed from Vermont's Mail Sorting Center in White River Junction. DRPC Raleigh is to continue to laser print all forms and mail from Raleigh. Delivery time for the two mailings will be documented and compared to determine if a significant difference in time can be realized.

The project is also to document each producer's preference for black and white DHI reports (printed in Vermont) versus reports printed in color from DRPC Raleigh. Dual printings and mailings began in mid-August and are scheduled to end by mid-September.

If this first trial project is successful, the remote printing program will be expanded to include data for all processed reports. The necessary hardware, time and expense to remote print all reports will also be evaluated.

UNIQUE BREEDS OF DAIRY CATTLE

Lawrence W. Specht
Professor of Dairy Science

Everyone knows the most popular breed of dairy cattle in Pennsylvania is Holstein — those black and white creatures that produce milk on most of our 12,000 dairy farms.

Other well-known breeds are Jersey, Guernsey, Ayrshire, and Brown Swiss.

However, there are a number of dairy breeds that have a unique history and place in our agriculture.

Milking Shorthorn

The Milking Shorthorn is a segment of the Shorthorn breed that had its origin in northeastern England in the valley of the River Tees, a rich agricultural area bordered by the North Sea. Through selection for dairy qualities, the Milking Shorthorn became separate and distinct from the Shorthorn.

When the breed arrived in America in the late 1880s, many saw it as dual-purpose for producing both meat and milk.

Recently, more emphasis has been put on breeding for increased milk yield, even to the point of crossing the Milking Shorthorn with New Zealand's Illawara breed.

The breed's color is either red, white, or roan (a mixture of red and white hair). Mature cows weigh up to 1,600 pounds, averaging closer to 1,300 or 1,400. Several Milking Shorthorn herds kept in Pennsylvania frequently are exhibited at county and state shows.

Dutch Belted

The Dutch Belted breed of dairy cattle originated in northern Holland prior to the 1800s. Its most prominent feature (and part of its name) comes from the broad band of white encircling the otherwise black body just back of the forelegs.

This breed (also called Lakenfelders) was developed by the Dutch nobility, whose primary selection goal was to preserve the striking color pattern. In fact, Dutch Belted are one of the early strains of dairy cattle from northern Europe that evolved into our present-day Holstein breed.

Dutch Belted were imported starting in the middle 1800s. Numbers have never been large. These cows weigh from 1,000 to 1,300 pounds and produce from 8,000 to 12,000 pounds of milk per lactation. Calves weigh from 65 to 90 pounds at birth.

Red Poll

Originating in England's Suffolk and Norfolk counties, the Red Poll breed was brought to America in 1873. The breed is naturally hornless (polled) and is a medium- to deep-red color with a red and white tail switch.

The original cattle were dual-purpose in nature with good carcass value and fair milking ability. The earliest imports did not leave a permanent record but are thought to account for the so-called native "muley" (naturally hornless) cattle.

They became established here in the latter 1800s from only about 300 head that were imported. Red Polls most often are found in the Midwest, with Indiana, Illinois, and Kentucky leading in breed registrations.

The Red Poll is a medium-sized breed, with cows weighing 1,200 to 1,500 pounds and mature bulls a ton or more.

Red Danish

Red Danish cattle are one of the youngest dairy breeds in this country. They were imported from Denmark in 1925 as part of a program to introduce superior genetic material into American dairy herds.

In 1935, 20 cows and two bulls were imported by the USDA Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md. Bulls were later kept in regular service at the Michigan Artificial Breeders Cooperative unit at East Lansing.

A group of Michigan dairymen cooperated with the USDA and the Cooperative Extension Service to progeny-test bulls of the breed and develop Red Danish herds. Interest in the Red Danish has declined since the 1950s, and few animals of the breed can be found outside of Michigan.

Females weigh from 1,300 to 1,500 pounds and bulls as much as a ton. Beef qualities are equal to those of Milking Shorthorns and Red Polls. These reddish-brown animals are rugged in appearance. The breed averages 12,000 to 14,000 pounds of 3.8% to 4.0% milkfat milk per lactation.

Linebacks

The term "lineback" describes a particular color pattern that can be found in certain Holsteins. A band of white hair, usually four to eight inches wide running the length of the animal from the poll to the tail, is the definitive color pattern. These animals are also known as "color-sided" individuals, since black, brown, or red hair is found on both sides of the white band. There is little else to distinguish them from other members of the Holstein breed.

Although people who own Linebacks consider them a separate breed, the USDA-Animal Improvement Programs Laboratory does not provide a breed code for them. They are, in fact, Holsteins with a striking color pattern. Size and milking ability are no different than for other Holsteins.

Linebacks are seldom found among the registered cattle of the breed. However, there is a "registry" association for them (American Lineback Cattle Registry, 730 Woodside Drive, Seymour, WI 54165).

Red And White

The Red and White Dairy Cattle Association was formed in 1964 to create a registry program for dairy cattle that are red and white in color. Red and white, red, white, or roan animals could be registered in the Red and White herdbook if the owner was a member of the association. A grading-up program is in place that will accommodate cattle of other breeds and red-carrier (RC) black-and-white Holsteins.

Many of the most productive Red and Whites have been produced from the mating of two RC Holsteins.

In recent years, from 5,000 to 6,000 animals have been recorded annually as Red and Whites. Some red and white Holsteins are dual-registered in both Holstein and Red and White herdbooks.

Production and type characteristics are much like those in the black-and-white breed. After generations of being shunned by registered Holstein breeders, Red and Whites now have a unique value that enables them to sell for more than their black-and-white counterparts, even though their production and type traits often are not equal to those of black-and white-Holsteins.

Body size, milk production, and milk component percentages are similar to those of the black and whites. Red-and-white animals are common in the Holstein breed in Europe, where selection procedures for red-and-whites have been the same as for black-and-whites down through the years.

Maryland State Fair 4-H/FFA Cows Of Color Named

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent

TIMONIUM, Md. — At the 1994 Maryland State Fair, six breeds of dairy cattle were shown in the 4-H/FFA division on Tuesday and Wednesday. Each show was held in the Cow Palace on the Maryland State Fairgrounds.

After the Tuesday show the grand champion of the Holstein show was brought into the ring to join the grand champions of each breed in the color breeds show. They included the grand champion; Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Guernsey, Jersey, and Milking Shorthorn. From these six grand champions a supreme champion for the 4-H & FFA portion of the Maryland State Fair was chosen by Judge Curtis Day and Judge Kenny Krebs.

The 1994 Maryland State Fair 4-H & FFA Supreme Champion is Ms Md-Dun-Loafin Moonshine, a three-year-old Holstein exhibited by Shannon Harrison of Howard County. Ms. Md.-Dun-Loafin Moonshine is out of C Logic Marijuana, a cow Shannon's brother Paul and his friend bought in Canada. Sired by Bridon Astro Jet ET, the senior three-year-old cow is co-owned by Shannon and her brother Paul. She has a history of wins with the last one being supreme champion at the Howard County Fair. Shannon also won the fitting and showing division of the Holstein show and came in second place in the Maryland Holstein Futurity.

"She's always been easy to work with," Harrison said. "She's real smooth and real contented. She's been right at the top everywhere."

As the Champions in each breed lined up in the ring, announcer Lee Majesky said, "Looking at these cows and those udders is a real tribute to the breeding programs and the support they've gotten throughout the State."

His opinion was mirrored by both judges. Kenny Krebs judged the Ayrshires, Guernseys, and Milking Shorthorns. He said, "The quality here has been extremely deep. I sure appreciated the effort the kids put toward me in preparing their animals and presenting them to me. The quality was even better than I had anticipated."

Judge Curtis Day evaluated the Jerseys, the Brown Swiss and the Holsteins. After the Holstein show he said, "If all States had a show the quality of this one 4-H would be in marvelous shape!"

Results of the 1994 Maryland State Fair 4-H & FFA Colored breeds are as follows:

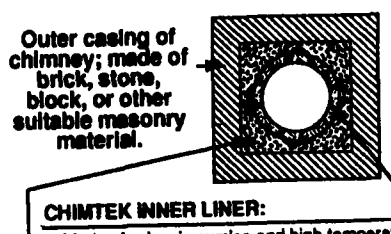
CHIMTEK™
ADVANCED CHIMNEY TECHNOLOGY

SAFER: CHIMTEK is designed to withstand severe chimney fires without breaking or transmitting high temperatures to adjoining combustible materials.

LESS CREOSOTE: Wood smoke contains moisture (H_2O). When the smoke comes into contact with a surface under approx. 250 degrees F the water will condense to a liquid. This liquid combined with other products in wood smoke will result in creosote. Creosote can be very dangerous when it ignites. The inside of a CHIMTEK chimney stays much warmer and greatly reduces the amount of creosote formation. In many cases CHIMTEK chimneys are completely clean after years of use.

IMPROVES STOVE PERFORMANCE: The draft produced by a chimney is what pulls oxygen into the fire for combustion. The three main factors affecting draft are the chimney's height, size and temperature. CHIMTEK contains a great amount of a very special insulating material that is not affected by moisture saturation and will not seattle or deteriorate. Poor draft will result in poor combusion. Poor combusion will create more smoke. Smoke is wasted fuel. Newere EPA certified stoves are especially dependent on proper draft to perform properly.

A SURE SOLUTION TO MASONRY CHIMNEY PROBLEMS:



CHIMTEK INNER LINER:
- Made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements.
- Round shape provides even temperatures inside flue, and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gases.
- Highly resistant to thermal shock.
- Even if cracks should occur, the round shape and Chimtek Secondary Liner prevent pieces from falling into chimney.
- The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

CHIMTEK SECONDARY LINER:
- Provides exceptional insulation to make chimney more efficient and reduce heat transfer to combustible materials.
- Provides structural support for inner liner.
- Will not absorb moisture or creosote.

BARN CLEANERS

Built to clean faster... built to last longer!

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

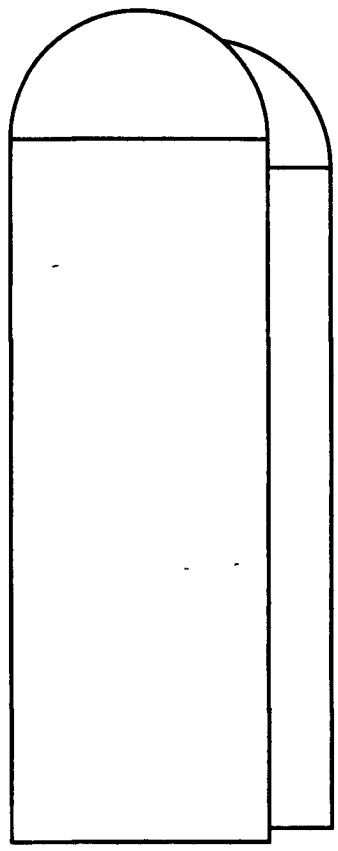
3 SILOS AND UNLOADERS



TOWER SILOS:
HIGH PROFIT STORAGE FOR HIGH ENERGY FEEDS

Preserving high energy corn silage is obtained only through efficient, effective storage. Storage that saves the most nutrients. Storage that delivers the highest overall long term benefits. Storage that offers better total performance than any other method of preserving valuable corn silage.

Tower silos control the fermentation process and retain the most feed. With tower silos you'll get better feed...more feed...with lower overall costs and less labor than any other storage method.

"When it comes to high profit storage for high energy feeds, other systems just don't measure up."

CONSIDER THE MANY CONCRETE ADVANTAGES!
"A GOOD JULY RAIN GROWS A LOT OF GRAIN!"
With The Prospect Of A Good Corn Crop, It's Time For Many Producers To Make Decisions Concerning Storage.

about 10,000 bu. cap.
Shelled Corn

No Used Silos!
No Rebuilt Silos!
No Preowned Silos!!

In order to avoid hauling and drying costs, let us build a corn storage unit to preserve your valuable grain at 20%-30% moisture.

To keep your stored corn bright and yellow, you must protect it from oxygen and heat. Our 6" thick concrete walls reflect 38% of light beams, resulting in 780 times more heat-resisting ability than steel, and 25 times more insulating power than steel.

Our 6" thick walls have a very low leak potential compared to pre-fab silos of any kind, and a very low maintenance requirement.

BEFORE SPENDING A LOT OF MONEY FOR ENERGY TO DRY YOUR CORN, YOU WILL DO WELL TO CONSIDER THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF OUR POURED CONCRETE SILOS...

To unload your corn, we can install the simple auger system, the Laidig 43 unloader, or the Flying Dutchman. Let's discuss the options, and what is best for your situation.

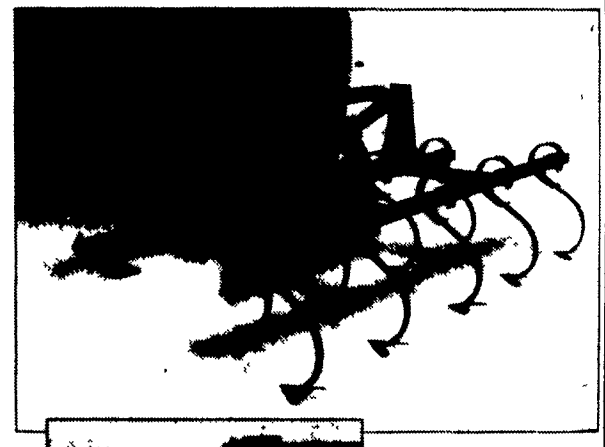
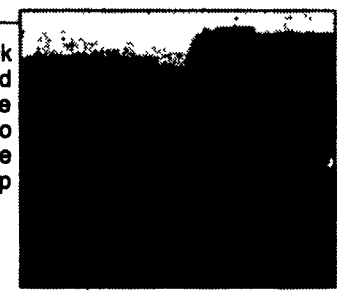
THE VAN DALE ADVANTAGE

SHALLOW TILLAGE APPLICATOR

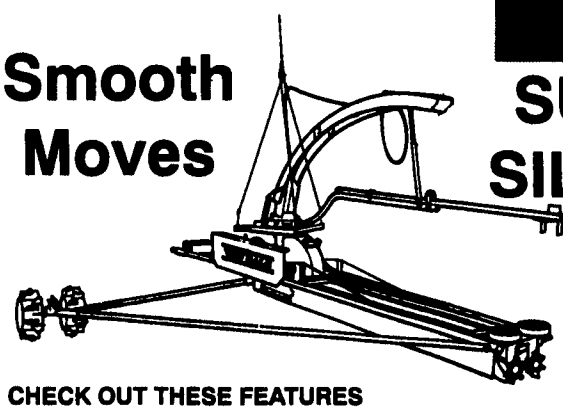


Van Dale's newest generation of liquid manure applicators is based on a simple, yet superior design. The Shallow Tillage Applicator consists of a double row of nine heavy duty cultivator shanks, evenly spaced, to provide maximum mixing action of top soil and liquid manure. All shanks are equipped with 9" sweeps to attack the soil and give consistent application and excellent soil agitation across a 12' width. The result is more manure nutrients available to plant roots because incorporation is done between 3" to 6" deep—ideal for crop utilization.



AN EFFECTIVE METHOD OF MAXIMIZING THE FERTILIZER VALUE OF LIQUID MANURE

Smooth Moves



SURFACE DRIVE SILO UNLOADERS

Smart farmers look to Van Dale for all the right moves when it comes to surface drive technology. Even frozen and hard packed silage and haylage are no match for Van Dale's Magnum and SD 2000. Now Van Dale offers even greater efficiency with its DURAGLIDE® Impeller available on the SD 2000. The Duraglide lessens gummy buildups, uses less power and provides faster and more reliable delivery.

Make a move in the right direction to Van Dale. Leaders of the pack since 1950!

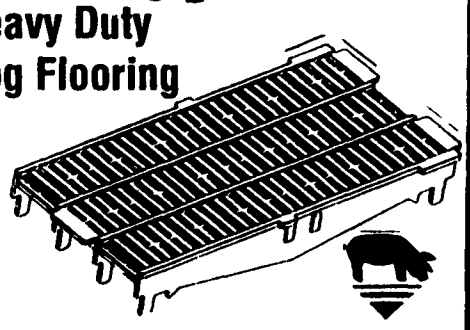
Polygrate ™
Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.
Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
- ◆ POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
- ◆ More piglets survive until weaning
- ◆ Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- ◆ Heavier piglets at weaning
- ◆ Better conditioned sows at weaning

Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies

M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

Northrup King Introduces New Seed Releases

GOLDEN VALLEY, MI—Following extensive field testing, Northrup King Co. announces the release of 22 new corn, soybean, grain sorghum and sunflower products for the 1995 growing season. Based on their field tests, Northrup King agronomists and plant breeders report the following distinctive features of these new products.

N2213wx is an 85-89 RM hybrid with improved standability and higher yield for growers in the northern Corn Belt. Adapted to all soils and recommended for planting at medium-to-high harvest densities, this Waxey™ offers very good early season growth in cooler soil environments.

N2555 is notable for excellent early season growth, drought tolerance and outstanding yield. "If you like N2409, you'll love N2555," said Northrup King Senior Agronomist Myles Engelstad. Rated at 86-90 RM, this hybrid adapts well to all soils at moderate-to-higher harvest densities.

N3030 is adapted for northern Corn Belt growers. "This 91-95 RM hybrid is best suited for premium grain and dairy operators desiring very high yield potential", said Northrup King Agronomist Mark Mattingly. Noted for uniform and stable performance, N3030 is recommended for medium-to-high harvest densities, adapts to a wide range of soils and features very fast early season growth, even in the cooler soils.

"N4342wx is a Waxey™ hybrid that growers can use for feeding livestock or to sell for grain in the specialty market without giving up the yield of dent hybrids," said Northrup King Agronomist Jim Graeber. With excellent ear retention, this 100-104 RM hybrid sets heavy test weight grain.

New N7333 is slightly earlier in maturity than PX 9540 and S7751. "N7333 offers very high yield potential," said Northrup King Agronomist Dean Grundman. "This hybrid performs best at higher plant populations on highly productive soils in areas adapted for 111-115 RM corn."

N7448 is a 112-116 RM hybrid best adapted for medium-to-heavy soils at a harvest density of 24,000 to 28,000 ppa with favorable moisture.

Rated at 116-120 RM, N7992 is comparable in maturity to N7989. It is a tall plant with a high ear placement. "N7992 offers high yields of quality test-weight grain and, due to its plant height, will also work well for silage," said Northrup King Agronomist Rich Franchini.

Tall with very good stalk strength and staygreen qualities, N8020 is a very good choice where foliar diseases are a factor. Slightly later than N7989, this 117-121 RM hybrid is adapted well to most soils with harvest densities of 24,000 to 28,000 ppa with favorable moisture.

New N8214 is a good fit for the California Central Valley. "N8214 is one of our very best medium-full season hybrids for conditions here in the West," said Northrup King Agronomist Win Johnson.

N8656 is widely adapted across the Mid-South and south Atlantic states. "Excellent for high quality grain or silage, this 119-123 RM hybrid adapts well to irrigation and also has very good drouth tolerance," said Northrup King Senior Agronomist Carroll Oakes.

Ten new varieties add to an already strong lineup of Northrup soybeans.

S 20-91 is an early-Group II soybean released for Canada and Italy. "This variety offers very high yield potential and consistent performance over a wide range of conditions," said Northrup King Plant Breeder, Don McClure.

Solano is a late-Group 00 soybean with a yellow hilum. "Solano is going to be a favorite early soybean for northern growers," said Northrup King Senior Agronomist Myles Engelstad.

Similar in maturity to B095, S 09-95 is tolerant to iron deficiency chiorosis, allowing it to be grown in areas where alkaline soil conditions are common. "A late-Group O soybean, this variety is an excellent companion to S 12-22," said Northrup King Senior Agronomist Myles Engelstad.

S 16-60 is a mid-Group I variety with a clear hilum, medium-large seed and above-average protein content for food grade potential. "This a medium-tall variety very well suited for 30-inch rows because it develops a wide canopy type that helps reduce late-season weed pressure," said Northrup King Senior Agronomist Myles Engelstad.

S 29-11 is resistant to soybean cyst nematode (races 3, 14), and also has resistance to brown steam rot. "A good drill bean at moderate populations, this late Group II variety also works well in wide rows and no-till," said Northrup King Agronomist Jim Graeber.

S 39-41 is adapted to east central and eastern soybean areas where high levels of Phytophthora root rot can be a problem. "This soybean is the best new late-Group III variety to hit the eastern Corn Belt since S 42-30," said Northrup King Senior Agronomist Jack Walker. "The Rps 1-k gene gives it resistance to all the prevalent races of Phytophthora."

An early-Group IV, S 42-60 is widely adapted to all soil types, row widths and tillage conditions, said Northrup King Agronomist Tom Miller. "Demonstrating the potential to produce exceptionally high yields, this variety also has greatly improved shatter tolerance," he said.

S 52-25 is best adapted for the Southeast, lower Corn Belt and Mid-South soybean areas where Essex and COKER 425 have traditionally been grown. However, S 52-25 is not well adapted to the Sharkey clay soils of the lower delta.

S 57-11 is a high-yielding variety with an excellent disease and pest resistance package that is ideal for the Mid-South, said Northrup King Agronomist Keith Flaniken. An early-Group V maturity, this variety is resistant to SCN (races 3, 14), Phythophthora root rot (races 1-3, 6-11) and has very good resistance to stem canker.

S 66-90 has an excellent disease and pest resistance package. "A mid-Group VI, S 66-90 is a top-yielding soybean highly resistant to stem canker," said Northrup King Senior Agronomist Carroll Oakes. "In addition, it has very good resistance to soybean cyst nematode Race 3, and moderate resistance to Races 1 and 14. It also has shown very good resistance to Southern Root Knot nematode."

KS 735 grain sorghum is now available with an expanded supply. "KS 735 is a medium-full maturity grain sorghum with high-yield stability from year-to-year and over a wide range of environments," said Northrup King Agronomist Norm Klein.

Deere Unveils 8000 Series Tractors

MOLINE, Ill. — Drawing on input from extensive customer and competitive owner research and more than 70 years of experience in designing and manufacturing tractors, John Deere has developed four all-new 8000 Series Tractor models, ranging from 160 to 225 PTO horsepower.

The John Deere 8000 Series tractors include the 160-horsepower 8100, 180-horsepower 8200, and 200-horsepower 8300, which replace the 4560, 4760, and 4960 models in the product line.

The largest model, the 225-horse power 8400, provides the most PTO horsepower and hitch lift capacity of any row-crop tractor in the industry.

The tractors feature a John Deere-designed-and-manufactured powertrain. They use proven electronic technology to provide fingertip control of the transmission, SCVs, PTO, and hitch; precise engine performance; self-diagnostic capabilities; and complete compatibility with options such as row guidance and electro-hydraulic depth control. The chassis design is so innovative and unique that it is patented. It gives these tractors the shortest turning radius (17 feet) in narrow rows of any competitive MFWD tractor in this size class.

One of the most distinctive features of the tractors is the CommandARM that places the controls for the transmission, throttle, SCVs, hitch, and PTO in the armrest of the seat for convenient fingertip operation.

Models 8100, 8200, and 8300 are powered by a six-cylinder 7.6-liter John Deere diesel. The 8400 features a new six-cylinder 8.1-liter Deere diesel. Both engines have a 40 percent PTO torque rise and feature air-to-air intercooling for increased performance. Both meet 1996 emissions standards

Holtrys Attend Product Introduction

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Luke Holtry and Bill Holtry of Holtry Welding & Repair, located in Roxburg, Pa., recently attended the official introduction of seven new models of Agco Allis high-horsepower tractors ranging from 135 to 215 horsepower. The program was sponsored by Agco Corporation, the parent company of Agco Allis.

"With the introduction of these seven new models, our Agco Allis dealers can now offer their customers more choices including the option of an air-cooled or liquid-cooled diesel," said Jim Seaver, agco vice president of sales. "I don't think you'll find a more complete line of high-horsepower tractors anywhere else."

Luke Holtry and Bill Holtry are shown in this photograph with Jim Seaver and two of the new Agco Allis tractors. More than 675 Agco Allis dealers and their sales people came from all over North America to attend one of two shows, which included detailed feature/benefit presentations, training seminars, and an opportunity to operate the new equipment.

JOHN DEERE BALERS DELIVER CONSISTENCY, CONSISTENTLY

Building "square-er," stackable, solid bales is what our proven hay control system is all about.

Once hay is inside the baler, a continuous-flow, floating auger moves the crop into a tapered chamber... precompressing the hay before it reaches the bale chamber. This makes John Deere bales denser, and more consistent. A difference you'll notice when stacking and feeding bale after John Deere bale.

BALES HOLD THEIR SHAPE... AND QUALITY... 'TIL FEEDING TIME

It's simple. You get uniform bale density throughout the bale-density you need for solid, stand-up-tall bales. Bales that hold their shape and therefore, preserve hay quality.

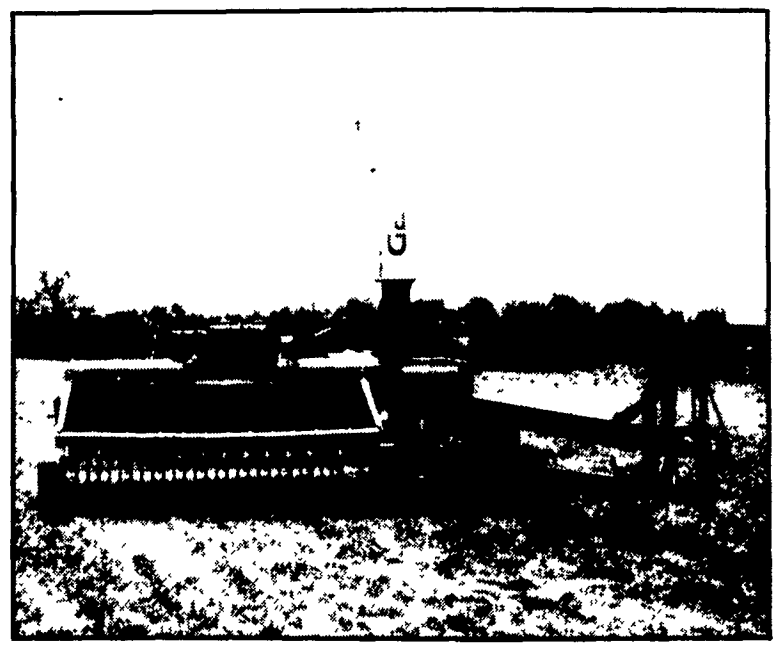
GEHL Introduces Three New Forage Harvesters



GEHL introduces the 65 series forage harvesters.

WEST BEND, WI — Gehl celebrates 50 years of forage harvester leadership with the introduction of the new "65 Series" forage harvesters.

"In 1943, Gehl became the first manufacturer to mass produce a pull-type forage harvester," says Terry LeFever, forage equipment product manager. "And today we're solidifying our leadership position with a refined line of products to match any forage harvesting need."

The Model 1265 is the largest-capacity pull-type harvester available today. Designed for tractors up to 300 PTO horsepower, it features a massive 25-1/2 inch cutterhead. Gehl's exclusive Auto-MAX™ load sensing system is standard equipment. "Auto-MAX can increase your harvesting capacity by up to 20%," says LeFever. "That's because you can harvest at minimum capacity without fear of overloading and prolonged down-time." Gehl's Metal-Stop™ metal detector is a valuable option on the 1265.

The Model 1065, Gehl's most popular size forage harvester, is designed for use with tractors up to 200 PTO horsepower. It features a 21-inch wide cutterhead. The Auto-MAX load sensing system and Metal-Stop metal detector are available options.

The Model 865 is designed for use with tractors from 60 to 150 PTO horsepower. According to LeFever, "This highly efficient unit uses less horsepower per chopped ton than larger units. It delivers high capacity at an economy price for extra value." Gehl's Metal-Stop metal detector is optional on the 865.

For more information on Gehl's entire forage harvesting system, see your local Gehl dealer or write to Gehl Marketing Services, 143 Water Street, West Bend, WI, 53095.

There's nothing more important to a crop than early even emergence. To get it, you need accurate, even seeding.

The 5300 has earned a reputation for its seeding precision, a funciton of its exclusive feed cup design and dependable disk openers. And, to improve placement of seed, the opener drawbars are heavier than on previous models. Press wheels and opener bearings are heavier for long life operation.

Along with accuracy, the 5300 gives you fast, high capacity seeding, so you spend less time refilling hoppers. Grass seeding attachment for 16x7.

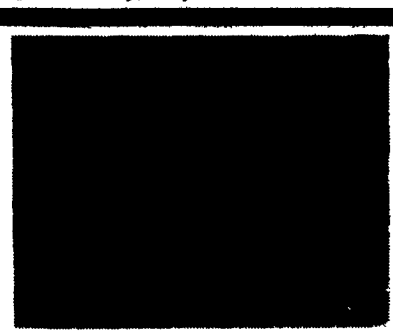
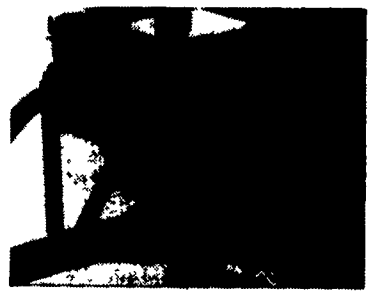
BALZER/RICHARDTON

Silage Conveyors

Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc. Has A Culti-Mulcher With Quality Features



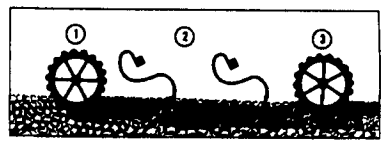


Weight Transfer is needed on some fields for best mulching results. Unique Farmhand system allows weight to be distributed between the front and rear rollers and the draw bar as needed.

Bearings on torsion-mounted hangers and roller tool bars combine with split roller axles to isolate shock loads. Up to 12 triple-lip sealed, self-aligning ball bearings are used on the main frame of each machine.

Complete Seedbed Preparation in One Pass

Here is how Farmhand Mulchers prepare perfect seedbeds in a single pass. (1) Surface clods are crushed into small particles by the front rollers. (2) Buried clods are then brought to the surface by two rows of looped "C" tines or Danish vibrating tines. (3) The rear set of rollers crumbles these clods, firms the seedbed, presses out the air pockets and leaves a fine seedbed for planting



Mulching Makes You Money

Mulching your soil gives you better yields in two ways. First, loosely packed seedbeds with many clods allow moisture to evaporate quickly through the air pockets. Lost moisture reduces the speed of germination and gives your crops a less efficient start. Mulching creates a finer, clod-free seedbed with few air pockets and gives your crop a uniform start throughout the field. Moisture rises at just the right rate from the water table below to the seedbed.

Secondly, the small roots of sprouting seeds need a ready supply of soil nutrients. Feeder root systems of small plants in poorly prepared seedbeds cannot break through the clods and reach out for nourishment. Mulched soil allows the feeder roots to reach out in all directions. Thus, nourishment flows through the roots to build strong, fast-growing plants that give you better yields case IH axial flow combines!

What good is a combine without people behind it?

HOOBER PEOPLE KNOW

You can't go anywhere in Pennsylvania and get combine service support like you get at HOOBERS.

HOOBER has:

1) (5) factory-trained mechanics who work full time on combines - 2 have worked on combines since IH introduced the 1st axial-flow in 1977.

2) (5) combine service trucks, fully-equipped with welders, air compressors, hoists, combine parts so they can go to the problem and fix it fast.

3) A service manager just for combines. Don Carper has managed Hoober's combine service department for 15 years.

Don Carper

IT'S TIME FOR YOU TO TRY A HOOBER-RECONDITIONED COMBINE!

Hoober's reconditioned axial flow combines aren't finished after 1,500 hours, or 2,500 hours, or 3,500 hours or 4,500 hours or (?) hours!

NATIONAL FARM SAFETY AND HEALTH WEEK SEPTEMBER 18-24

You Can Make Every Week Farm Safety And Health Week

We want you to work safely around your farm every week. Start by avoiding unnecessary risks when operating the PTO and when transporting equipment. Plus, be sure your tractor is geared for safety, by getting it equipped with a free kit to help prevent bypass starting. And install a Rollover Protective Structure (ROPS) on your tractor to help reduce the risk of injury or death due to tractor overturns. Make safety your top priority during National Farm Safety and Health Week, and every week.

We have ROPS for most John Deere tractors built since 1960.
Rigid ROPS starting at $250, foldable ROPS from $395.

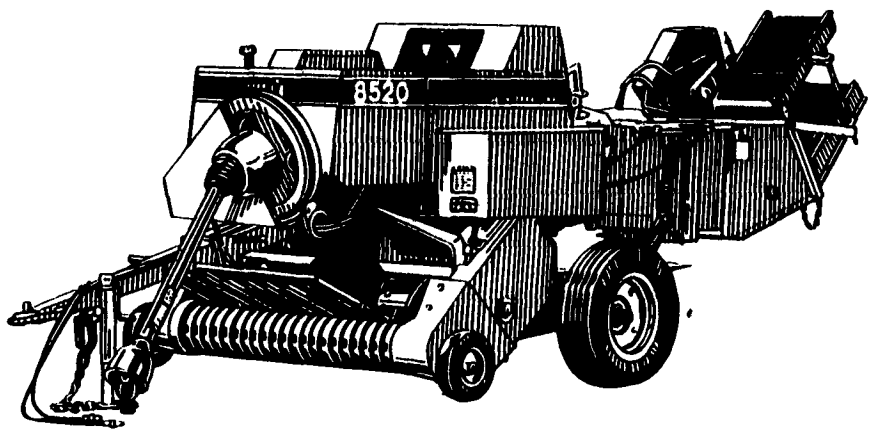
OUTSTANDING BALER PERFORMANCE MEANS GREATER NUTRITION AT AN ECONOMICAL PRICE



Case International 8520/8530 Rectangular Balers

These two balers both feature the Case IH center line design. Eliminates turning corners with the crop to get it into the bale chamber, as is common with conventional designs. This saves valuable protein-rich leaves. Also saves time because you don't have to change from field to road position for transport.

Other outstanding features are:

- Low-profile baler design provides excellent visibility to the rear of the baler.
- Low-profile pickup... reduces crop lifting height, saving nutritious leaves
- Hay goes straight into the unique prepacker chamber... regardless of windrow size... for uniform flake and bale density

Come in soon for the rest of the story!

Models 510S, 515E, 520, 520H, 525 & 530T Bunk Feeders

Here's a better way to feed your herd! With the Pequea portable bunk feeder, you'll save time — save money. Load it up with silage, haylage, round or square bales or any mixture of grain and forage. Tow it into the field, and feed up to 52 head of cattle at once.

With Pequea's efficient slant-bar system cows can't push each other away from feeding spaces, so you have less feed loss from spills. Convenient low tank height accomodates any size cow.

You can save wear and tear on your pasture and they eliminate heavily trampled spots. Just move it to a new location each day.
